"A Glimpse of Stirling"

(By Mary Halbus)

My interest in Ontario Villages has been revived since my visit last week to Stirling. The name always had an allure for me because of my happy sojourns in Stirling, Scotland, the scene of that historic battle when England was routed by the Scots at the Battle of Bannockburn, 1314. The picture of lovely old Stirling Castle, rising up in its prehistoric beauty had made an indelible impression upon my mind.

The day was mine, and I was alone and could do with it what I chose. I was in an exploring mood, so over the road I sped to Stirling. It was a balmy day, and Nature wore her prettiest garb of green with accessories of contrasting colors. The air was soft and warm and gave on a pleasant feeling of well-being after the long cold winter.

Just as I approached the Village, I stopped a lady to enquire where the main street was. It seemed so part of my thinking that she should answer with a Scotch accent. "Would you be from Stirling, Scotland?" I asked. "That I am," said she. "Are there many Scots here?" I continued. "No," she said, "mostly Irish." What a strange thing that she should be the only one who loomed in sight.

A minute after, I found myself in the cleanest little village. There were no ugly telephone poles visible. I learned later that they had all been placed in the back lanes. As I walked up the main street appraising the merchandise in the shop windows, I realized that one could buy almost anything. At the very end of the thoroughfare was a shoe factory where dozens of young people were happily engaged. What a happy solution to the "Street corner" problem.

Buying some little thing in the drug store introduced me to an alert and interested young man, who told me many things about the village. He specially commended the weekly newspaper. This led to an interview with Mr. Tompkins the editor, who has had the paper for twenty years. While waiting for him, I had a chance to read the Stirling News-Argus. I was amazed at its accuracy in printing, and found it informative and interesting. I was struck by the fact that the people are loyal to their village weekly and appreciate its value.

In a past issue I read about the textile company that has bought land in Stirling. It expects to build in the near future a huge plant that will employ a goodly number. Cleanliness is essential for that type of manufacturing.

Mr. Tompkins enlightened me about many things; that there was a water supply, that local option was in effect, that a Horticultural Society and a Chamber of Commerce were active, a service club did a good job, and that unity and a spirit of "one for all and all for one" existed.

A trip to the lovely little Carnegie Library was the end of a perfect day. The librarian impressed me with his courtesy and culture, and when I asked his name it did not surprise me to hear Melkjohn, one of Canada's old families. His son, Allan, was a graduate of our College of Education of the University of Toronto. He is head of the English Department at Kingston High School and has written a book that is authorized by the Department on "Words."

Villages like Stirling are a credit to Ontario. Progressive with ideals and unity, they could be a shining example to some of their neighbours. Good churches, no evidence of poverty, fine doctors and a dentist, and an active Horticultural Society. What's in a name?

Missing Madoc Boy Found Hiding

Eight-year-old Terry Bruyns, Madoc, missing from his home since 6 p.m. Thursday was found Friday afternoon, cowering under a boat near the village.

The lad, who apparently had decided to run away from the home where he was living with a family named Phinn, never left the village, Const. Hatch of the OPP Madoc Detachment said. After he had been gone for several hours, he was apparently too frightened either to return to the Phinns or continue on his journey.

Ridge Road School Says Farewell To Rev. Baker

At the close of the last Religious Education class session at the Ridge Road School, S.S. No. 1, Rawdon, last Friday morning, pupil Reg. McCurdy came to the front and read the following address.

Dear Mr. Baker:

It is with profound regret that we approach the hour when you will be leaving us for your new home. Today brings home to our school very forcefully the knowledge of the loss we as a school are about to sustain.

You were so willing and faithful in rendering leadership in Christian Education and we feel grateful for your sacrifice in giving of your time and talents.

Someone has said, "that the more we love the better we are, and the greater our friendships are the nearer we are to God." In the new sphere of usefulness which you are entering we trust that your Ridge Road friends will not be forgotten and we hope that many new friendships may be added as you continue your service for Christ and His cause.

We, the boys and girls of Ridge Road would like to show some appreciation of your painstaking effort in our Christian Education. We bring to you this token of our sincerity and appreciation and may it in some small way remind you of the pupils of Ridge Road School.

Signed on behalf of the pupils and teacher.

At the conclusion of the reading, pupil Gayle Smithson presented Mr. Baker with two chain-bordered wall mottoes which read: "Only one life, 'twill soon be past, only what's done for Christ will last" and "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift." Mr. Baker feelingly acknowledged this lovely recognition of his work.

Girl Guides Closing Meeting

An important event of the evening was a Flying Up ceremony for six Brownies, they were introduced to the Captain by Sally Fox and Heather Rodgers. Carol Ray and Mary Ellen Long helped to pull one Brownie into the Guide horse-shoe. We regret that one little Brownie was too ill to attend the Fly Up, do hope she is much better now.

The Brownies sang an action song, followed by a brief report from Brown Owl Flo Faires. Their ever-faithful and energetic badge secretary, Ev. Duffin, was asked to accept a gift from all the little Brownies who had during the year passed their golden hand and bar tests. Ev. thanked the girls and said she thoroughly enjoyed any work in connection with either Brownies or Guides.

Mrs. L. Hawkins, Camp Secretary, gave a detailed report of the requirements and whereabouts, the rules and the cost per girl and the date of the Girl Guide Camp. Twelve from this Company are permitted to attend.

Awards were made to five Guides and one Patrol. The Canary Patrol, led by Patrol Leader Sally Fox and with Wendy as her Second, had the highest marks as a patrol, so received an award. Patsy Fraser had the highest marks as a Guide, a total of 211 for the term. Vicky Armstrong received an award for having made the greatest progress and Lois Vardy for being a good Guide under all conditions and Wendy Warren for being an excellent and reliable Second. Noreen Brooks received an award for being the best in the Second Class Guides.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Sullivan with a most suitable address written and given by Rose Anne Vandervoort. Laura Jeffrey presented Mrs. Waterfall with a gift from the Company, regretting that ill-health had prevented her from attending all of the Company meetings. Captain Kent received a Guide ring from the Guides and a gift from her Assistants, and was taken completely by surprise, but with many thanks.

Mrs. Woodbeck asked the few mothers in attendance their wishes with regards to raising funds for the coming Guide Camp. The mothers present wished to donate cash, so please all do your share.

Captain Kent told of the progress of the Company and the number on the roll and the joy she received from sharing her time and efforts with the girls. She expressed her great appreciation to her Assistants for their loyal help. This was one official closing but there will be a weiner roast and hike and final proficiency badges recently earned will be given and nature tests for second class will be passed.

WHAT OTHERS SAY!

ADVERTISING ALONG THE HIGHWAYS

(Ottawa Journal)

Everyone who travels over Ontario roads has benefit from a branch of the Ontario Department of Highways which few people know. It is the Sign and Building Permits Branch, and its duty is defined in an official publication of the Highways Department as "to see that no edifice, from a telephone booth to a baseball park, is erected in such a position as to be a hazard to the man in a car."

This branch possesses and exercises tight control of billboards, of advertising signs of all kinds along provincial roads. In some areas no signs of any kind may be erected — field advertise-ing, it is called — and where signs are permitted the regulations are strict. The official publication summarizes them:

"In rural areas that are not restricted these signs cannot be over 53 feet in length, 15 feet in height and must be three feet above the ground. If 10 feet or under in length they must be set back from the boundary of the highway at least 75 feet; if from 10 to 25 feet in length they must be placed 175 feet from the highway; and those between 25 and 50 feet may be no closer than 275 feet.

"Moreover, no sign may be placed within less than 1,000 feet of another sign of this type regardless of which side of the highway it is situated; nor can one be erected nearer than 300 feet of an intersecting road or railway."

Thanks to this control the highways of Ontario are mercifully free of the signs so common years ago — and still common in some provinces — which block scenic vistas and can create a hazard to public safety by obstructing the view of hills and curves or by taking the attention of the driver from his wheel.

Most signs now are in the municipalities, where sometimes it happens that the control by local councils is far less restrictive than the regulations of the Sign and Building Permits Branch of the Provincial Department.

Mrs. Arthur Pyear has been elected President of the Woman's Association for the Belleville Presbytery. She comes to this high office after several years' duty as Secretary. She will be succeeded as Secretary by Mrs. W. T. Elliott.

Woman's Institute

The preparation of the Tweedsmuir Book by each Woman's Institute, is one of the finest projects of this worthy organization. It was our privilege to see the "Madoc" book recently. It is a truly masterful compilation of every phase of that community's life. Endless hours of research have yielded many historic pictures and data which will now be preserved for posterity.

More Chronicles

1. As the records of David included his mighty captains such as brought the water from the well of Bethlehem, so the diary of Centennial Year and this Pastorate would be incomplete without listing the devoted principals in this major undertaking and the work of the past four and one half years.

The Elliotts

2. Beginning with a letter of welcome to Stirling received before our arrival and containing with added lustre the love and loyalty of Walter and Audrey Elliott in supporting this pastorate cannot be computed in the currency of man. Time, talent and treasure have been given willingly without any co-equivalent return save the satisfaction that comes to those who strive to do the will of God and "stay not" even at the end of the second mile.

Apart from providing for personal joys in making possible a northern lake vacation and a new and well appointed care the hospitality both by day and night cheerfully furnished for Centennial Year and special visitors both at Summer and Winter residences has been but some of the many ways by which the Elliotts have made "the rough places smooth."

Large personal gifts of time and money enriched the Silver Jubilee Observance of the Church, the Festival of Sacred Praise, the new lighting installations and with Mrs. Patterson and Miss Carlisle the "White Gifts for the King" ministry.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Elliott have been devoted teachers in the Sunday School. They have repeatedly invited the Parsonage family for meals as well as to share the good things of their pantry and locker. Fresh fruit brought by them from the Sunny South has graced the parsonage breakfast table.

Among countless praiseworthy ministries was the care and consideration bestowed on the mother of Mrs. Elliott and the unfailing solicitude for her sister and her boys. The most recent offer of these "Greathearts" was an invitation to the Parsonage family to occupy, if it so desired, their summer home at Oak Lake during July.

The Pattersons

3. Each week the News-Argus carries the words "Service with a Smile." The sponsor has a specially warm spot in his heart for the Clergy. His Minister knows the benefits of the clerical discount a historic link of value and service with the trials of colonial days. Robert and Bessie Patterson have not been found wanting in the loyal support of their church and its under-shepherd. Both did much to make Centennial Year a success.

Mrs. Patterson is most responsible for the Who's! Who! in the Centennial Year Book which involved hours and hours and more hours of time. Her tact and patience were both required. Her unfailing kindness, cheerfulness and grace are the outcroppings of her loyalty to Jesus Christ. It is little wonder that she was chosen to become one of the Christmas Angels of St. Paul's. Apart from many other cares (in the W.M.A. especially) she has tabulated year by year the Lenten Self Denial Gifts.

Of the Dean and first "gentleman" of the choir he it said he has never tried to dodge a duty or a service within his power. He has been loyal to the Minister and the programme of the church. His choir record of service is unequalled. He will be remembered not only for his "Santa Claus" acts throughout the year, his leadership in Advent song, but for his stellar role in the "Gypsy Rover."

No shadows have fallen over the loving service of these disciples in the memory of this pastorate.

The Carlises

4. There are many members of this well known family but at St. Paul's it is only George and Evelyn and their children. This family is not only at church every Sunday but at every service. No other family at St. Paul's can equal their record. Six members in the family and six at every service with few exceptions. Nothing gladdens a Minister's heart more than the fidelity of the church families. If every family that counts St. Paul's their home church made as good as attendance the church would be crowded at every service. Surely those with poorer records might well ask "What kind of a church would my church be if every member were just like me?"

As the Senior Lay Reader of the church (Clerk of Session) George Carlisle has been exemplar. Called upon to speak on numberless occasions he has never let the Minister down. His brain and brawn have both been employed in the service of his Saviour. Mrs. Carlisle has been the help-mate par excellence. The cares of a busy and above average household have not daunted her. She is not an excuse woman but has bravely served and serves in Society leadership with tenacity, patience and consideration.

From Grandview Farm (Rawdon) eggs by the six quart basket sent to the parsonage, are an indication that there is nothing small or mean about the "Carlises" of St. Paul's.

It is not surprising that these three aforementioned women, a veritable trinity of Faith, Hope and Charity, should be members of the Fairy Stone Seven at St. Paul's.

Church Officer

5. It has been said that a poor Church Caretaker will drive more people away from the church than an effective under-shepherd can gather in. In Arthur Morrison St. Paul's is served by a man who takes a pride in his work. He is constantly improving. It is a great load off a minister's mind when the church officer is not afraid of work. When he can see things to be done and does them on his own initiative. Although there have been many additional calls (during Centennial Year especially) we have not heard a "grouse." Whether you call him caretaker, church officer or sexton, Arthur Morrison is making good. Many visitors have been favourably impressed by the care of lawns, wash rooms and the church assembly rooms. The bell too has been faithfully rung for all Sabbath and through-the-week services.

6. To the many hostesses who opened their hearts and homes to the students of Albert College a grateful remembrance.

7. Though at times only a link or two were present of the Adult Class chain Mrs. Geo. White unperturbed and ready to "carry on" was there. This little group of Bible Students have not given up to the pressure of an ever demanding age. An age which spreads out some lives so thin that they are scarcely visible. A first loyalty to Jesus Christ is the hall mark of this devoted mother in Israel. Regular in church attendance, Secretary of the Communion registry, companion of her devoted daughter, surely the Father would say of this widow "she hath done more."

Bay of Quinte Conference

Next Tuesday delegates from the near and far reaches of the Bay of Quinte Conference will gather in the Bridge St. Church, Belleville, for the annual four day sessions. All meetings are open to the public.

Lilac Sunday

Gorgeous persian lilacs, the gift of Mrs. Keitha Hubble spiked with tulips and branches of honeysuckle in great profusion adorned the altar area of the church last Sunday. Lily of the valley also added to the fragrance of the sanctuary.

The morning service at St. Paul's marked the S.S. anniversary. A great improvement in the attendance of pupils and their parents was observed. Rev. Charles Clark of Frankford, was the guest speaker. Misses Carol Burgess and Joan Fraser sang Festival solo numbers and Misses Grace Heasman and Dawn Hubble the Festival duet.

St. Paul's Choir

Mrs. Walter Warren has graciously invited St. Paul's Choir to her home for the last pre-summer practice, June 24th. This will be a time of fellowship and parting. Numbers for the summer months will be rehearsed during the June practices.

Promotion

The following members of the Royal Choir have been promoted to the Senior Choir. Misses Wendy Warren, Jeanette Ayhart, Doreen Thrasher, Grace Heasman, Carolyn Belcour, Patricia Fraser and Margaret Johnston at St. Paul's.

Thank You

St. Paul's Sunday School is grateful for the anniversary thank-offering which exceeded $100.00.

Girls' Rally At
Mount Pleasant Church
And Hall

On Saturday afternoon, May 29th, 65 girls and their leaders attended a Rally at Mount Pleasant United Church and Hall under the direction of Mrs. Joe Thompson. Springbrook, leader of girls' work under the sponsorship of the Religious Educational Council of Marmora, Stirling and Rawdon.

The Rally was for girls 12 to 18 years of age and their teachers. Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, teacher of that class at Mount Pleasant Sunday School and her assistant, Mrs. Milford Wrightman were hostesses on this special occasion. The hall was tastefully decorated with mauve and white lilies, red peonies and other blooms.

Bethel Busy Bee's Club conducted the worship service in the church and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen voiced a gracious welcome to the guests.

Miss Iris Daly, B.A., A.T.C.M., teacher of girls' work in Toronto, conducted a special class for all the Sunday School teachers and she gave an address on "How to help build God's kingdom." Miss Margaret Hillis, of Belleville, gave a series of motion pictures of camp life at Quin-Mo-Lac.

Miss June Free, Bethel, gave a very interesting talk on her experiences at camp last year. Springbrook C.G.I.T. group conducted some get-acquainted games and Mrs. Edgar Graham led the sing-song.

A candlelighting service was held at 7 p.m. under the direction of the Springbrook leaders with Mrs. E. Graham as pianist.

St. John's News

On Sunday an ancient service was conducted before the celebration of Holy Communion, known as "The Churching of Women." Based upon the Jewish ceremony of purification, it was practised in the church for years until recently and even now is held occasionally. The woman after childbirth attends church and takes part in the ritual which includes thanksgiving to God for His care. The Rector read the service for Mrs. Ralph Andrews, whose daughter, Wendy Ellen, will be baptized in the near future. Assisting the Rector was John Noble, a Junior Server, who received the customary offering from Mrs. Andrews.

The choir sang the anthem, "Come Unto Me." Two lovely plants were placed in the church from Mrs. P. Palmer and Mrs. H. Leonard, in memory of their parents, William Haggerty and his wife. The recently confirmed members received their first communion together.

Special envelopes are now available for those who would like to make a small donation towards the expenses of the Cathedral Choir who will visit Westminster Abbey in August.

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hills)

WHAT IS A DETAIL?

A young fellow came to my office the other day wanting help to find a new job. When I asked him what was the matter with the one he had, he said, "There's too much detail. I'm not a detail man."

"What," I asked him, "is a detail?" I could tell by the way he looked at me that he thought I was just a foolish old man. But I had asked him a question which has been asked many times by many important people. As long ago as 1931, T. S. Knowlson was writing that somebody should write an informal essay on the subject, "What Is A Detail?"

It was his opinion that there are now no details. Everything is important. The detail of today may be an essential tomorrow.

All the advances made in our commercial utilities and our business services are the outcome of attention to detail.

Think of the Hertzian waves from the time they were first noticed to the present stage of their development. Marconi studied them for years and practiced in short distance transmissions from the Flat Holme Island in the Bristol Channel to another island, improving his sending, adjusting his receiving, until at last he could face considerable distance with confidence. No detail escaped him.

Our whole society is based on the fact that details are important. And most of us believe that the man on the spot is best able to pay attention to them. The local school board, for example, knows the needs of its own community much better than any far-off government could know them.

The town council can manage town affairs much better than they could be handled by far off experts. The individual farmer knows his land, and the problems it presents, and can plan his crops and his seasonal activities better than any expert unfamiliar with such details.

I did my best to explain to the young man that wherever he went, he would be a detail man. If he failed to be a good detail man, he would fail entirely. But he had the notion that his genius lies in the setting of broad policies. I could not talk him out of it.

The setting of broad policies is a very necessary thing, no doubt. But the man who sets these policies must know an infinite number of details. Broad policies based on general theories will flop every time. And when they do fail what a loud noise they make! Hitler found this out. Mussolini found it out. Every central government that has attempted to impose broad general policies on a nation, ignoring the human details, has failed miserably.

It seems to me that one of the most important lessons any young man could hope to learn is this: the details of life are extremely important. Never dodge them. They are life itself!

the year to be sixty, with 21 new members, 20 discontinuing members and four returning members.

Interesting reports from each of the executive and the conveners revealed that a great deal had been accomplished during the year; excellent programmes and good attendance at the meetings, an increase of interest in the business of the C.F.U.W., local assistance to the Red Cross and the W.A.W.A., and to the John Howard Society and to needy members of the I.F.U.W. Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, president, thanked the executive and conveners for their unfailing support during the year and for their unstinted efforts for the success of the club.

Mrs. Douglas Burr, convener of the nominating committee, which included Mrs. L. R. Finlayson, then presented the slate of officers for the coming year as follows: President, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon; Vice President, Mrs. P. T. Selbert; Treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Kuntze; Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. F. Baldwin; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Katharine Daly; Federation Representative, Mrs. J. E. MacArthur; Programme Convener, Miss Mary Doyle; Social Convener, Mrs. W. C. Bengier and Mrs. Ronald Cass, Mrs. W. E. van Steenburgh and Mrs. T. J. McQuaid; Publicity, Mrs. J. H. Bateman; Membership, Convener, Mrs. A. E. May and Mrs. H. W. Burns; Members at Large, Mrs. R. A. Pringle and Mrs. Bernard Hurley; Past President, Mrs. Douglas Burr.

This slate of officers was passed by acclamation.

Miss Josephine Tickell introduced Miss Madeline Young, M.A., a former teacher at B.C.I., who left Belleville to teach at the Normal School, Toronto, and has now returned to live at Belleville. Her topic, "Humour" proved an apt subject to give a gay finale to the year. "Humour," she said, "is not to be interpreted, it must be sampled. It is common in English literature which provides a motley crew of exponents of humour."

Humour is international. With the English it is rebellious, constant and compassionate, coming from the heart; with the French it is apt to be a bit malicious and fond of the "double entendre;" with the Germans, it is always aimed at others, never at themselves.

English humour is at its best in times of trouble. "It would take a lot," said Miss Young, "to beat a people who could call V bombs 'Doodlebugs.'" The English take their humour seriously, and are in a rage if not amused by the magazines supposed to be funny.

"One wonders," she said, "if the sense of humour is dying out in this age of apprehension and uncertainty. Humour today seems to be an unexplored field with literary students lacking in the sense of what is laughable." Teaching humour means teaching people to understand life's situations, and to have a joyous acceptance of life.

To the delight of her audience, Miss Young gave many laugh-provoking excerpts from English, Canadian and American humorous writings as samples to be enjoyed. All present heartily agreed with the speaker as she closed her talk on Humour with these words, "Long may it thrive."

Mrs. A. E. May voiced the appreciation of the club to Miss Young for her courtesy in presenting this delightful paper on "Humour" to give a gay fillip to the closing meeting.

A social hour followed with refreshments served by the Wellington ladies Miss W. Kincaid, Miss G. Martineau, Miss R. Nash and Miss Mary McMahon.

University Women's Club Holds Annual Meeting

The May and the annual meeting of the University Women's Club was held recently at the home of Mrs. H. T. Floyd, 16 McDonald Garden, Belleville, with forty members present. Visitors welcomed at this meeting were Miss Valerie Bennetts, Miss Josephine Deluis, of Mexico, student at Queen's University, Miss H. Farley, Miss Roberts and Miss Shirley Weese.

After an encouraging report from the treasurer, Miss K. Daly, the president, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, thanked all the conveners and members who had helped to ensure the success of the Spring Fair.

Regret was expressed at the passing of Mrs. R. P. D. Davidson, a charter member of the club (1938), who worked for many years for its success. Mrs. Davidson was the mother of five, all university graduates, the youngest, a graduate of Queen's this May.

Four resolutions presented by the Federation representative, Mrs. W. N. Hurst, were all endorsed by the Belleville Club. The resolutions of the Ottawa Club advocated: (1) that further implementations should be made to the Government regarding changes in the Succession Duties Act to reduce the tax burden of the widow; (2) the extension of the parole system by federal penitentiaries with cases to be reviewed every three years. The resolution of the London U.W.C. was that a standing committee be formed in the C.F.U.W. to form a League of Women Voters, and that of the Victoria U.W.C. that the CBC continue in its present status in control of radio and TV in Canada.

For the annual meeting Mrs. W. Hurst reported the membership for

Who Will Emphasize Posture Education

The Executive Board of the World Health Organization recently resolved to place less emphasis on specific diseases and more emphasis on the type of positive health promotion and education that is carried on by the Health League of Canada. The Board met in Geneva under the chairmanship of Dr. Melville Mackenzie, United Kingdom.

The Canadian organization, which has been in existence since 1919, became a citizens' committee of the World Health Organization two years ago. Since its founding the Health League of Canada has devoted its efforts to the theory that it is wisest and cheapest to stop sickness before it starts, by teaching the public how to recognize and prevent it.

The World Health Organization, which has concentrated most of its facilities on investigation of communicable diseases in underdeveloped countries, now will explore ways of awakening health consciousness through citizen action in such areas. The Executive Board has declared further that great importance should be attached to problems of industrial health, especially in newly industrialized countries. The Board will seek further co-operation between W.H.O. and the International Labor Office.

Don't Overrate Food Allergies

A Chicago doctor recently warned against "food fads" and "health crackpots" who claim elimination of certain foods from the diet will rid one of all types of food allergies.

"Such diets," Dr. Samuel M. Feinberg said in TODAY'S HEALTH, "Frequently results in serious undernutrition and dietary deficiencies." Quite frequently, according to Dr. Feinberg, people who believe themselves to be allergic to certain foods are not allergic at all. Even when a person happens to be one of the 2 or 3 out of a hundred who actually is allergic "it must not be taken for granted that his every ailment can be explained by the allergy," Dr. Feinberg said.

Dr. Feinberg is chief of the allergy clinic and director of the allergy research laboratory at Northwestern University Medical School.

ONCE UPON A TIME

A rather lazy squirrel who, by eating an acorn with an inchworm, grew to a hundred times his size and declared himself to be king of the forest — a slow-witted but well intentioned tugboat, name of Tugboat Danny, who wished he were an ocean liner — finds himself leading a gang of the desperate hordes he idolizes — and a very conceited skyscraper who looks with scorn at the other buildings around him. Characters like these are typical in the delightful series of fantasies designed for children from six to 60. Written by Ray Darby, with music by Morris Surdin, the "Once Upon a Time" series can be heard every Sunday on the CBC Trans-Canada network.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

JUNE SURVEY IN HANDS OF FARMERS

The form for the June Survey of crops and livestock will be in the hands of Ontario farmers about June 1st. This survey is carried on annually by the Statistics and Publications Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Each form in itself is strictly confidential, has no connection with taxation of any kind and is used only to obtain group totals and averages for marketing estimates. In this way each schedule helps to form the picture of agricultural conditions in Ontario.

In a country in which Agriculture is so important, it is hardly necessary to stress the value which farmers, business, government and the public in general place on the timeliness and accuracy of various crop and livestock estimates. The Department of Agriculture is constantly striving to improve the accuracy of these estimates and for this purpose needs the co-operation of a large number of farmers in carefully filling out and returning these survey schedules promptly. The assistance of all farmers in this project will be greatly appreciated.

DAIRY FARMERS OF CANADA LAUNCHES ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

Over 100,000 Ontario milk and cream producers are being called upon during the month of June to support the advertising programme of their national organization, Dairy Farmers of Canada. Based on the sale of butterfat in either milk or cream, the Ontario potential for the advertising fund last year was $207,404, of which $137,000 was actually collected. Dairy organization officials are anxious to increase the June Advertising Set-aside, as it is called, in both Ontario and Quebec since these are the two major producing areas of the country. Percentage-wise both Ontario and Quebec have lagged behind the rest of Canada in supporting the June Set-aside. Several western provinces are already asking that the basis of the Set-aside be widened to include a period longer than one month.

Farm organization officials point out that the Set-aside is more important this year than ever before because of the potential surplus situation. While the per capita consumption of dairy foods in Canada increased last year, some surpluses still exist. With a good pasture season and a shortage of export markets the surplus situation could be embarrassing. For this reason dairy officials feel it is imperative that their strong advertising and merchandising programme be insured and they are looking for help particularly from Ontario and Quebec dairy farmers.

ME FIRST!

"Two of the worst menaces on our streets and interurban highways today," says an editorial in Motor Truck and Coach, "are the line-straddlers and the lane-switchers. The line straddlers are the gentry who hog the middle of the road with their left wheels a foot or two over the centre line . . . and the lane-switchers the gentry who . . . switch back and forth across the lanes to gain a few minutes' advantage.

Weed of The Week

PERENNIAL SOW THISTLE

Perennial Sow Thistle can be a perennial source of sorrow, says the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The seed may blow onto a clean farm or may be inadvertently "planted" by the farmer who buys "cheap" seed. With soft green notched leaves, and a profusion of running root stocks topped by a profusion of orange yellow dandelion like heads about an inch across, this weed flowers from June to August. The airborne seeds, like miniature paratroopers travel about the country, establishing beachheads wherever they land. Once established, rootstocks spread out, sending up stalks from buds on these rootstocks.

Perennial Sow Thistle is common on all types of soil but is liable to be widespread on heavier, poorly drained soils. To control this weed, cut it to prevent it going to seed, and practice a bare fallow or row cropping rotation.

Carefully timed spraying with 2,4-D amine or ester acid at one-half to one pound per acre just before the flowers develop will prevent seed formation. More than one such treatment is necessary to get a complete kill.

If clean seed is sown, and any individual plants are killed before they are established, this creeping menace can be kept under control. If present in a field of grain, spraying will control it. Heavier applications will help the crop crowd out this unwelcome intruder.

ONTARIO PLOWMEN TO COMPETE IN MANITOBA MATCH

Western Canada will have an opportunity to appraise the skill of Ontario farmers this month when two champion Ontario plowmen participate in the Manitoba Plowing Match to be held at Portage la Prairie, June 16th.

Representing Ontario will be Joe Tran, of Claremont, and Harold Nixon, of Hagersville, two of Ontario's top plowmen. Both men have been constant winners in Ontario competitions both having won "Esso" awards donated by the Imperial Oil Company under whose auspices the inter-provincial trip is being made. The Ontario team will be accompanied by Hubert Avery, Immediate Past President of the Ontario Plowmen's Association who will act as team manager.

The Ontario representatives will leave Toronto by car on June 7th. En route they will visit the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo and the Dominion Experimental farm at Morden, Manitoba. Following a day of rest they will have two days to practice before the match on June 16th. They will return to Toronto on Monday, June 21st.

F. A. Lashley, Secretary-Manager of the O.P.A., reports that more than usual interest is being shown in the Ontario invasion of the west as the event marks the first occasion on which there has been an inter-provincial contest of this nature.

MOTOR VEHICLE INSPECTION

Several Ontario cities are all set to re-open drives on defective motor vehicles.

Toronto's broad testing plan is this year being supplemented by a special Safety Lane where drivers can have their brakes, steering and headlights tested, on a voluntary basis.

The regular police road tests will begin any time now. Last year tests were given to 27,344 vehicles, including re-tests. Of the 22,112 street tests, 7,302 were failures on account of defective brakes. Summonses were issued to 2,851 owners, who were required to submit to re-testing as well. In addition, 595 cautions were issued regarding emergency brakes.

Unroadworthy vehicles totalled 404. These were required to be towed away, repaired and retested before being permitted on the road under their own power. About 80% failed to return for retest, and may be considered to have been disposed of as scrap.

Keep Body Tissue Alive In Chemicals For Lengthy Period

In the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto Dr. Raymond Parker has developed a synthetic chemical solution in which living body cells will live and multiply for many months.

This work has been going on for the past six years and has required literally thousands of carefully controlled experiments. It is supported by public contributions through the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

Keeping body cells alive has long been an important aspect of cancer and other research. For years researchers have been keeping tissue alive in natural media. These are solutions such as blood plasma or egg yolk that come from living organisms. If they are renewed often enough the tissues will live in them indefinitely.

Dr. Parker's work differs in that his media contains nothing from a living organism but is made up of chemicals known to be necessary to cell life. So far he has tested 703 different media. The most recent one, No. 703, contains some 60 different constituents.

The advantage of a synthetic medium, Dr. Parker explains, is that it can be controlled. In all natural media there are factors that cannot be measured. These include immunity factors, for instance, or growth factors inherent in the animal from which the plasma or other natural medium was taken. As long as these unknown factors exist it is impossible to determine exactly what chemicals affect different aspects of cell growth.

There are many things we do not know about cancer cells. Why do some cells begin to grow in an unregulated disorganized manner so that they interfere with other cells? What chemical substances do cancer cells use more or less of than normal cells? What substances do they produce when they grow in this wild manner? In other words . . . what is the chemistry of cancer cell growth?

Something must cause this change in cells to take place. They must be getting more or less of some chemical element than normal cells do. Dr. Parker hopes to discover this by taking certain elements out of his synthetic media and adding others to it. This is an extremely long and involved process because a rigid control must be kept over every factor that might be involved.

The work is costing more than $20,000 per year and will continue to do so for years to come. The bulk of this money is raised through public subscription through the Canadian Cancer Campaign.

Rifle Controversy No New Thing

The current controversy over the ammunition and rifle to be adopted as standard by the NATO nations. (England is of the opinion that their new .280 calibre is better than the U.S. developed T-65) is not a new story. During the American Revolution (1775-81) the English militia was armed with the 75 calibre Brown Bess.

The Americans nearly all had Kentucky rifles. An English soldier was lucky to be able to hit a man at 30 yards, or a hay stack at 50 yards, whereas the American, with his Kentucky rifle could knock a man off a horse at 100 yards.

The Kentucky rifle is represented in the collections of the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology by a gun nearly five feet long. The 42½ inch barrel is mounted in a curly maple stock, with a very ornate brass patch box in the butt. The British Brown Bess is also represented by a number of weapons in the museum's study collection.

Paid workers outside of agriculture outnumber farm operators as a voting group by 4.97 to one.

The capital of the Union of South Africa is Pretoria, although the Union's Parliament meets in Cape town.

Teamwork Does The Job

A short time ago the 1000th Oreanda turbojet engine emerged from a huge postwar plant at Malton, Ontario. Since then a similar milestone has been observed at Cartierville, Quebec. The latter dealt with the 1000th F86 Sabre to come off the line, and the occasion was attended by fitting ceremony.

More so in the case of the Oreanda than the F86, the feat was accomplished only after many initial setbacks. These production achievements underline the fact that Canada's defence effort is progressing quickly, and its volume is becoming more impressive all the while.

Gratifying as these milestones must be for the prime manufacturers, to a wide range of Canadian sub-contractors the feeling of vital contribution must be equally felt. It takes a wide-spread team effort to produce both engines and aircraft, and hundreds of Canadian sub-contractors have had a hand in their production. Without this well knit co-operation of sub-contractors, who perform in a more or less unpublicized role, Canada's defence picture could not be as gratifying as it is today. This applies not only to the field of aviation, but in other branches of the armed services, where a broad range of skills is required to produce the modern weapons of today.

Change In Bank Hours At Marmora

A change will be made in the banking hours at Marmora Branch of the Dominion Branch effective June 4th and 5th. On and after June 4th the bank will be open for business from 4.30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday as well as during the usual hours from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on June 5th and each Saturday thereafter it will remain closed all day. In fact the bank has been open from 4.30 p.m. to 6 p.m. for the last two Fridays and it has been surprising the rush of business during that time. Last Friday the bank was crowded almost to capacity and cars could hardly find parking space in that part of the village. —Marmora Herald.

Getting Along With People

Happy human relations depend on ability to get along with others, whether they are our children, our associates, our employees, or even our employers. In a recent address, Dr. C. C. Golding, Director of Education for Toronto, recommends some important words:

"In human relations the five most important words are, 'I am proud of you.'"

The four most important words are, 'What is your opinion?'

The three most important words are, 'If you please.'

The two most important words are,

"Thank you." And the smallest word is the capital 'I'."

Red Cross Hospital Car Treats Patients

The Red Cross "hospital on wheels," a nursing car operated by Manitoba Division on the Hudson Bay Railway has completed its first six months of service. Red Cross nurse Mrs. Ruth Evans, who lives aboard the car, has cared for about 600 patients since the car was put in service. She has made 200 home visits and visited three schools. She examined 175 children.

"No, Marie, she didn't. But I always sweep up whenever I've finished a job, just like you help your Mummy by keeping your room tidy and always putting away your toys when you're through with them . . ."

Making just that little extra effort is part of the telephone job. Bell people everywhere go out of their way to be orderly, courteous, obliging. You can see in the way they work they're "glad to be of service!"

It all adds up to better telephone service—service that keeps on giving more and more value to the user.

Purchase of Additional Fire Hose Authorized By Village Council

The purchase of four hundred feet of hose for the local Fire Department was authorized at the regular monthly meeting of the Village Council on Monday night. The action of Council was taken following a request from Fire Chief R. E. Fox. The purchase will be made from the Dominion Rubber Co. at $1.60 per ft. plus tax.

Communications were tabled from Air Force headquarters for permission to bomb the Village with leaflets prior to Air Force Day at Trenton Airport; Workmen's Compensation Board; Coca-Cola Company; and Rawdon Township Council.

A letter from Clerk W. J. Barlow of Rawdon Township, was tabled asking for an Arbitration Board on the assessment for the Union School Section.

Reeve West stated that in his opinion the decision of the assessors, providing it was unanimous, was final. On May 27th last, the Assessors of the Municipalities concerned met and reached an agreement, which was duly signed, leaving the apportionment of the costs of education in the school section the same as now in vogue. Consequently he recommended no action by Council.

Area Rate 12 Mills

Clerk Mallory, reading from the minutes of the last High School Area meeting, stated that the rate for the current year would be 12 mills on the equalized assessment. He also tabled a communication from the Stirling Public School Board making requisition for $4500 for the current year.

Water Rate Questioned

A communication from Centre Hastings High School Area Board sought a reduction in the water rate charged the local High School, pointing out that the Stirling rate was nearly four times as high as in Tweed. Reeve West pointed out that the cost of fire protection was included in the Stirling rate and was based on assessment and pupil attendance. The local Public School was charged on the same basis. However it was a matter that concerned only the Public Utilities Commission and one over which Council had no control.

The condition of the buttment on the northeast approach to the Front St. bridge was drawn to the attention of Council by Reeve West. On motion of Councillors Bailey and Philp, Clerk Mallory was instructed to write Mr. Fraser, Dept. of Highways, Kingston, re condition of the bridge.

To Extend Water Services

The extension of the water services south on the Frankford Road was discussed, with Councillor Harry Philp putting in a special plea for fire protection for residents on this road. On motion of Councillors Philp and Bradshaw the Public Utilities Commission will be asked to extend these services.

The matter of putting a permanent surface on some of the Village Streets was discussed and on motion of Councillors Philp and Bradshaw it was agreed to spend $1200 on permanent surfacing this year.

Tenders for the construction of sidewalks in the Village were opened by Council but were left in abeyance until next Monday, June 14th, when a special meeting of Council will be held.

Councillor Harry Philp gave notice that at the next regular Council meeting he would introduce a bylaw to set the municipal levy.

The purchase of a new flag was authorized on motion of Councillors Bradshaw and Wells.

The following accounts were presented for payment:

Harry Jones, $110.00; Township of Rawdon, $22.75; Co. Registry Office, $2.20; McIntosh & Wells, $32.80; Bell Telephone, $10.25; Stirling Motors, $9.50; K. Belcour, $58.50; Municipal Ward, $3c; Wm. Bowen, $17.25; Workmen's Compensation, $105.63; F. R. Mallory, $9.50; Earl Fox, $4.00; Hatton Hardware, $53.20; J. C. McGee, $12.99; Public Utilities, $277.55; H. C. Martin, $30.20; James Park, $22.50; Stirling Library, $173.19; Chas. Davidson, 60c; Co. of Hastings, $44.63.

Loses Father

Stirling and district friends join in extending sympathy to Mr. A. V. Greenley, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal. In the loss of his father, the late A. G. Greenley, whose death occurred at his home in Colborne, Ont., on Thursday last. He was in his 80th year. His wife and a daughter, Mrs. Davis, of Toronto, also survive. The funeral took place in Colborne on Saturday, with interment in Hastings Cemetery.

District Supt. Speaker At Pentecostal Church

Rev. W. B. Greenwood, District Superintendent, was the guest speaker at the Stirling Assembly, Sunday, June 6th. He had two very interesting stories for the Sunday School children and an inspiring message for both the morning and evening services. After the morning service he took a photo of everyone present outside the Assembly room.

Mr. David Dowe from Calvary Temple, Belleville, sang and played the guitar at the evening service. Next Sunday, June 13th, both Mr. and Mrs. Dowe will be singing and preaching. Everyone will enjoy their fellowship.

Sunday School Prize Given

Ronald Whiteman was given a beautiful pen for having the highest score in the Sunday School class. On his gift was printed the words, "Jesus Saves." Surely Ronald will treasure both the pen and the words.

Funeral of Gilbert Thompson

The funeral of Gilbert Thompson, Mill Street, Stirling, was held at St. Paul's United Church on Friday afternoon, June 4th, and was largely attended. His pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, conducted the service and was assisted by Rev. W. H. V. Walker.

Mrs. Walter Warren sang, by special request, "No Night There." The pallbearers were Messrs. Robt. Patterson, Harvey Pitcher, Sam Kirksey, Earl Bailey, Frank McGee and Harper Rollins.

The service was under the direction of Stirling L.O.L. No. 110, and about thirty members of the Order sat in a body with Bro. Fred Bateman acting as Worshipful Master, assisted by Bro. Earl Wallace, D.M., and Bro. Ross Hoard, chaplain.

Interment was made in Stirling Cemetery.

Speaking Horticulturally

Do you sometimes wish you could remember what you did with those seeds, seedlings, plants, shrubs, etc., last year, and how they panned out? How about dates, weather, experiments and results? Will you want to remember next year what you are doing now?

Keep notes and a record of the more important activities in the garden is there for reference. A brief note jotted down at the right time as to date, soil and weather condition, etc. of a planting can be valuable information at a later date. A note regarding fertilizing or spraying — time, quantity and type — could save a lot of headache another time. This is good horticulture and often good reading in the winter months.

It is hoped that those members of the Stirling Horticultural Society who were asked to keep track of the dates and period of blooming of spring perennials, are doing so.

We are hearing of marvellous plants being developed for the flower garden, and glowing descriptions have appeared in the papers about some of these. Will members of the Society who are trying anything of this nature this year, kindly keep a record of planting, growth, and results, for the benefit of the others. A report at a later meeting would be most interesting.

"Flowers In A Lifetime"

(By Mary Halbus)

Last week we read about our former neighbor, Lionel Conacher, Canada's number 1 athlete, on the unanimous vote of all the sports editors. He was borne to rest, past a guard of honor of athletes and members of parliament. Rarely has any citizen had a finer obituary. We thought that the modest quiet man had never realized in what esteem he was held in the community. We decided that obituaries were too late. We liked our mother's adage, "Flowers in life time." Sometimes people labor long and ardously and receive very sparse praise for their self-sacrifice. Ministers in particular are so often taken for granted. As one woman in a certain community remarked, "We pay our clergyman to preach good sermons and pray for us." Money is such a small return for time, energy, love and selfless service. When men and women retire, often their hearts are warmed for the first time during their office by words of approval and encouragement. Retiring to a new and more important vocation is a glorious adventure. Rev. Nathaniel Cole Today we were thrilled to be one of the first, to learn from Mr. Cole, that instead of finishing his ministerial work in July, he goes, as assistant pastor to Central United Church, Windsor. He has been seven years in Hastings and before that was on the Stirling Circuit.

Born A Sailor

Mr. Cole is a sailor at heart and a son of Newfoundland, being born at Carbonear. His father, Captain Ambrose Cole, hoped that his sons would follow the sea. The "Jewel" was the first ship on which the boy "Nat" sailed. Later he was settling off with his parent and brother for foreign parts, when suddenly he asked his father to delay a day, that he might talk with the minister of his town. The Captain, a devout christian, respected the young man's request and ordered the ship's flag to be lowered. Hours later, Nathaniel came slowly down the wharf and went aboard to his father. In a low, tense voice he said, "Father, I shall never go to sea. I am going to study for the church." Captain Ambrose Cole hesitated a moment before he could find his voice, then gripping his son's hand, with tears in his eyes, he gulped, "God bless you my son. You are serving the King of Kings." Nathaniel Cole stood motionless on the wharf until the ship was merely a speck on the horizon. He knew that now he was a sailor on dry land.

He found stormy days and many rough passages ahead, many of them more difficult to take than the trough of the gigantic waves of the sea. Two sons gave their lives for king and country. His only daughter married a minister, now serving in the forces. His wife has had most delicate health for years. But the optimism of one who understands wind and weather always takes him safely to port.

An Absorbing Hobby

His great hobby, which has taken him to many lands in correspondence, is stamp collecting. He is a connoisseur and has a rare and valuable collection. In his new work, it is understood that his mornings are to be free to follow this interesting vocation. Possibly he will start many in this educational profession. We know of some whom he has helped to forget themselves by becoming interested in stamps.

Mr. Cole is a lover of the classics and a very well-read man. He is admirably suited for the hospital and sick visiting, which will be his chief duty, in a congregation of a thousand members.

A Sailor's Accuracy

It was the Rev. Mr. Cole who first aroused our interest in Stirling and the News-Argus. Meticulous and careful, he appreciated the work done by that office. All his church and personal work was taken care of there. It is interesting to note that a Hastings school teacher, who has been attending his church, is going to marry one of the staff of the News-Argus this summer. She is musical and gifted and will be in her right environment in Stirling.

81st Anniversary Marked May 29th

A well-known native of Stirling and Carmel, Mrs. B. Windsor, was tendered a surprise party on Saturday evening, May 29th, at the home of her son, Maurice Windsor, Carnarvon. It was the occasion of her 81st birthday.

All members of her family were present, Mrs. Ray Mitts, of Trenton; Mrs. C. A. Holgate, of Cannifton; Mr. Frank Windsor, of Cannifton, and Mr. G. H. Windsor, of Hallburton and Mr. Maurice Windsor, of Carnarvon. Also present were Mrs. Windsor's son-in-law, C. A. Holgate and her two grandsons, Bill Mitts, of Trenton and Craig Windsor, of Carnarvon.

A delicious dinner was served by Mesdames G. H. Windsor and Maurice Windsor. The highlight was the presentation of a birthday cake, complete with candles when all present sang a happy birthday wish to the grand old lady.

The guest of honor was showered with gifts, cards, flowers, large fruit basket and many other items. After she expressed her surprise and pleasure, at the request of the family she sang the song "Granny's Old Arm Chair."

On Saturday afternoon, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the United Church at Hallburton met at the parsonage for a birthday party for Mrs. Windsor. They presented her with two books and a bouquet of flowers.

Dunlop Raps Progressive Educationists

Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario criticized progressive education Friday, saying it would result in a "bunch of softies in this country."

Speaking at the fifth annual Awards Luncheon of the Canadian Display Designers and Builders' Association, he said:

"I'm always amused by people who call themselves progressive educationists. They say that we should take the hard work out of the schools, a miserable expression, although everyone knows that you have to work hard to get ahead."

Police Cruiser Kills Farmer

Bernard Carman, 51, an Eldorado district farmer, was killed Thursday night of last week when struck by an Ontario Provincial Police cruiser in front of the Orange Lodge hall north of Eldorado on Highway No. 62.

Police said the cruiser, driven by Constable Arthur Bolyea, stationed at Madoc, struck Carman when he was crossing the highway to a waiting car.

Police said Constable Bolyea was blinded by headlights of the parked car.

Glengarry, with less than 11,000 voters, is the smallest federal electoral division in Canada.

WHAT OTHERS SAY!

GETTING READY EARLY

(Napanee Express-Post)

Through the efforts of the Mayor of Deseronto, Dr. D. C. McVicker and the member of parliament for East Hastings, Frank S. Folwell, the Dominion Department of Public Works has taken over the Canadian National Railways dock at Deseronto.

The effect of this is to place with the proper authority for dealing with such matters the administration, maintenance and repair of the dock.

It further means that the government will have in the south-eastern corner of Hastings county a dock capable of handling shipping which is bound to commence flowing into Central Ontario with the completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

It was wise planning on the part of Deseronto's Mayor to get the transfer made early, almost before other municipalities bordering the lake-front have awakened to the potentialities of their premises as shipping points.

SIDE VIEW MIRRORS RECOMMENDED FOR EVERY AUTOMOBILE

(Niagara Falls Review)

We believe the majority of police officers will agree that side view mirrors should be mandatory on all vehicles that travel highways and city streets. Such a law probably should be more applicable to highway traffic, and especially the need for side-view mirrors is evident on dual-lane roads, where vehicles dart out of line without warning.

Sideview mirrors are numbered among the "extras" in motor vehicle equipment, just like flashing equipment that can be flicked into operation with a finger touch to warn that a motorist is approaching an L-turn. In the latter case, at least a motorist is supposed to signal with his arm when he is about to make a turn, but there is no substitution for a good sideview mirror that keeps all rear traffic in view.

If you believe inside mirrors are just as adequate as a sideview mirror, make your own tests. Look through an inside mirror and try to keep pace with a car that turns out to pass you. The answer to the question is right there.

S.S. Group To Be Reorganized

A renewed effort to reorganize the Hastings and Prince Edward Deane's Sunday School Association resulted in a meeting of rectors and Sunday school superintendents at St. John's Parish Hall, Stirling, on Friday evening, under the presidency of Archdeacon J. B. Creagan of Christ Church, Belleville.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck supper in the same hall on September 10th. Notice will be given to all clergy and Sunday school teachers to attend. In charge of preliminary arrangements are Archdeacon Creagan, Canon A. S. McConnell and Rural Dean H. C. Secker.

Officers of the association will be elected at this meeting. Two subsequent meetings will be held in the course of the year.

It is proposed at the initial meeting to have a short talk, followed by group discussion.

Ladies of St. John's Church served refreshments.

Bonarlaw

Mrs. Jennie Wellman and Charlie spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sopha, Cordova Mines.

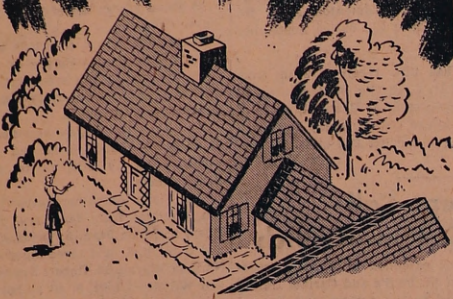

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt and family spent Sunday in Coe Hill.

Linda Wellman won a gold medal in Stirling on Tuesday of last week at the Festival of Sacred Praise.

John S. McKeown left for Waterloo to spend the summer with his daughter, Mrs. Russell Rowe and family.

St. Paul's--Carmel News Items

(By Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E.)

In her home, on the street or elsewhere whenever we meet Stirling's oldest friend, Mrs. Ed. Parker, of Victoria Street, we are inspired. A nonagenarian moving toward the century mark, she is one of God's noble women. A few months ago we saw her standing at a graveside service supported by two men past the meridian of life. They were two of her many Sunday School boys. They honoured themselves in honouring this first lady of Stirling.

As we shook hands on parting last week she said, "I am sorry that you are leaving. I wish that your mantle will fall upon your successor." Such a tribute from a devout woman, especially of the Presbyterian fold, where great caution is a tradition, is one of the finest we have ever heard.

Only to measure up to it! By God's help we shall strive to do so. With the approach of the Centennial celebrations at St. Andrew's Stirling, we are confident that this grand little lady of Victoria Street will hold an honoured place.

Carmel Chronicles

1. The first man we met in Carmel nearly four and a half years ago was Yeoman Philosopher Lorne Brooks. This whole-souled citizen is the grandson of the donor of the church site at Carmel. Save for road allowances his farm surrounds the church today.

We saw him for a few minutes in his well furnished forge and workshop, toward the going down of the sun last Wednesday. He was still at work. The conversation touched upon the church debt. Then with a sweep of his arm toward the spacious fields of the district and a herd of grazing contented cows he said, "debt we will never be out of debt here — one tenth of all we have belongs to the Lord. We do not give that much. It is His portion before we really start to give. Debt! We can never make up the debt we owe to God."

Such a philosophy of life marks this man as one of the higher ranges. He has caught the vision of the Psalmist. In the sturdy beautiful stone house nearby is the partner of this fine man whose soul value is glimpsed as we see him in the earliest Spring gathering the first hyacinths (Mayflowers) to grace the altar of the Lord in the Church of the Prophets at Carmel.

Mrs. Brooks is the "flower lady" of Carmel. We are yet to meet an individual who has excelled in interest this devoted mother and grandmother with the offices of teacher in the Sunday School and flower convener of the Church.

The Pyears

2. Carmel is a community of song and gladness. Nowhere in rural Hastings will you find heartier song or more contagious laughter.

In most of the families husband and wife are a team. For over twenty-five years Mrs. Arthur (Vera) Pyear has been the devoted church pianist at Carmel as well as the teacher of the Adult Class. She could not serve better if she were paid for it. Such regular voluntary service year by year adds gem to gem in her diadem.

Her lessons are prepared. They have a focal point. She enjoys successful class participation. Apart from her Sunday work she has served the Presbytery and local Woman's Associations in responsible offices, mothered two sons and to some extent three grandsons.

The pride of grandpa Arthur Pyear in the acres of "Pyeersridge" is only excelled by the pride he manifests in the executive ability and dynamic drive of his wife and the adorning approaches of his grandchildren.

As Treasurer of the church he has been most co-operative. Often the salary has been cheerfully paid in advance to the minister.

A brother, Edward Pyear, has a true bass voice. A rarity anywhere and unrequited for depth by any singer we have met in Hastings County. He is both an inspiration and support for every service in which he participates. His daughter Helen (Mrs. Neal) is a splendid woman's worker and keeper of the home.

The Baileys

3. A visitor at Carmel would have noticed a smallish man alone laying out and planting a garden with plants and bulbs at Carmel Church of the Prophets last week.

The fact that the day was all but gone and that he was alone provided the urge for unrestrained toil. God bless the men who can work without either an "overseer" or "side-kick," men who are not clock watchers or afraid of doing too much; men who love gardens and are especially interested in the "beauty of the sanctuary." Such is "Squire" Frank Bailey of Broadacres Farm, Rawdon Township.

"Lady" Bailey a sympathetic, wise, motherly soul of generous hand and twinkling eye is a match for all, including her witty husband. Mother and grandmother the Squire and his Lady can be proud of their boys, their wives and a new unfolding generation. Son Charles Bailey is Chairman of the Stewards at Carmel, a man of conviction, loyal to the loyal and friend of the Parson. Son Archie is at his father's right hand. A man of power and promise. The Bailey women are workers. They bring their varying gifts to the service of the Lord.

"Squire" Frank Bailey is a Trustee, Elder and Treasurer of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund at Carmel. He is not a second-hand man but one who obtains information by enquiry and examination. He loves his church and is faithful in attendance. There he is supported and surrounded by his children and grandchildren.

Of the Browns, Grills, Carlisle and other pillar families at Carmel we must write another time.

Sympathy

The love and sympathy of this Pastoral Charge is extended to the widow and loved ones of the late Gilbert Thompson. Mr. Thompson was a Trustee and Steward of St. Paul's. In his better health days he was active in the care of the Master's Vineyard. In recent years his interest was undiminished but his strength was largely spent.

Two large print hymnaries were dedicated last Sunday in his loving memory. They are the gift of the Official Board.

Sympathy is also extended to Mrs. J. Hansen, recently bereaved by the death of her mother.

Quarter Day

June 13th will mark the last Quarter Day of this Conference Year. It will also be the last of this Pastorate. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed both at St. Paul's and Carmel Churches. Open communion is the practice in all our churches. Every member is expected to be present.

In Public Office

Too often our representatives are only mentioned when there is an "axe to grind." We record our sincere appreciation of the co-operation, interest and attendance of public office bearers with few exceptions in the programs of the church.

These men are praiseworthy Reeves Bleeker, Grills and Morrow of Sidney Township; Reeves Spencer, Heath and Cooney, of Rawdon. Some have had longer associations than others.

Members Elmer Sandercock and Roscoe Robson of the local legislature have been outstanding. Member Frank Follwell of the Federal Government has also served cheerfully whenever called up. Too often the church bypasses these men of high office.

The Wardens of the County, Clerk Erle Denyes and staff of the County Registry Office; Township Clerks Col. R. Vanderwater and W. J. Barlow and Stirling Village Clerk F. Mallory. These together with our local Reeves and Councillors have been ready to advance every good cause.

Public welfare is largely conditioned by public interest. Stirling Chief of Police S. Eggleston has always been obliging.

Our sincere recognition of devoted school teachers is again recorded and of some trustees. We could desire a progressive united front in the interest of the new generation by all levels of school authority.

Trenton Water

It is only after four years' residence that we have been advised of the excellence of Trenton's drinking water. We are informed it comes from springs in the "Hills of Murray." This should be publicized by Trenton. There are too many drinking beer and other bottled beverages if one may judge by the numerous products seen on the town streets. Pure sparkling "Adam's Ale" is at their door. There is no need for liquid imports in Trenton — "drop your buckets where you are." Trenton's water is plentiful and inexpensive. Drink the "noxiage" that comes from the "Hills of old Northumberland." (Murray Township) Flowers

A large basket of beautiful flowers graced the Holy Table at St. Paul's last Sunday, sent by the loved ones of the late Gilbert Thompson.

"Open House" At Trenton Airport

On Saturday, June 12th, Trenton will hold "Open House" in observance of the 8th annual Air Force Day.

The Station will be open to the public at 1 p.m. and a programme of ground exhibits as well as a thrilling Air Display has been arranged. Featuring in the Air Display will be the fast (500 m.p.h.) T-33 Silver Star Jet trainers, and a parachute jump by members of the Station's famed parachute crews.

Also open to the public for the first time, Station Trenton's newest and largest hangar. This is the home of Air Transport Command's No. 4 Operational Training Unit and on display will be the North Stars and C-119's (Flying Boxcars). Interesting ground exhibits of ATS's 'Round the world' flights will also be displayed.

Again this year, all attractions will be centered on the north side of No. 2 Highway (the aerodrome itself).

The always popular feature of Air Force Day at Trenton, free airplane rides, is this year being extended with 75 rides being given to holders of lucky number programmes.

The Air Force has made arrangements to handle a record crowd and free parking space for thousands of cars is reserved at both eastern and western limits of the aerodrome.

Station Trenton welcomes its neighbours of Prince Edward and Hastings Counties to come and see their Air Force in action climaxing a busy season with the best show ever.

Sunday Schools, teachers and leaders and gave true illustrations of folks who had found a useful field of service after spending some time at this special retreat. He challenged his audience to "make plain the message of Jesus Christ every day in whatever job you have."

A fellowship hour was held in the church hall which was a bower of bloom. Approximately 175 people enjoyed a cup of tea and cookies served by club members under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. James Hoard.

Rev. Oaten gave an informal address explaining the different features of "Five Oaks" and what it has to offer to folks in various walks of life.

There was a wealth of beautiful scenes of the 25 acres as well as inspirational ones in the woodland chapel and educational ones in the work shop. This centre tries to meet the needs of local churches and provide lay readers with inspiration and training.

This outstanding service was made possible because Rev. Oaten is attending the Bay of Quinte Conference in Belleville this week and is a guest of Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Bonsteel at the Rawdon Parsonage.

The sisters of Mrs. Smith and Lois, with their mothers and the former grandmother were in attendance along with other close relatives. During the afternoon Miss Marilyn Wright read an appreciative address to Lois and she was the recipient of a nice array of cups and saucers.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reid, Holloway, was the scene of a pleasant occasion Wednesday evening of last week, when about 15 relatives gathered to surprise Mr. Reid on the eve of his birthday. A happy feature was the fact that their only daughter, Dorothy, now Mrs. (Rev.) N. C. Eastman, of Emmanuel Baptist Church, Calgary, Alberta, with her little son, Harold, is home for a month's visit.

During the evening an address was read by a niece signed on behalf of relatives by Veva Robson, Myrtle Reid and Rosie Reid, wishing him the best that life can offer, after which gifts were presented.

Mr. Reid, though taken by surprise, thanked everyone and paid tribute to the memory of a godly mother and father.

'Presbyterianism In Every Country of Habitable Globe' Says Speaker

The Presbyterian Church in Canada has a unique distinction in that it possesses "power of adaption and holds a steadfast array a large part of the intelligence and moral vigor of the Christian world," Mr. Justice J. Kellogg Mackay, Q.C., told a large gathering at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, recently. His Lordship, an elder at St. Andrew's, and a native of Nova Scotia, was speaking at the Pre-Assembly Congress of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. His subject: "Our Presbyterian Heritage."

"In the words of the English Historian John R. Green 'It is in Calvinism that the modern world strikes its roots, for it was Calvinism that first revealed the worth and dignity of man,' God forgid that we legates of this rich inheritance should ever fail to remember that we stand on sacred ground, drenched in blood and bathed in tears, hallowed and consecrated by the invincible courage and unfaltering faith of those who remaining true to conscience and to Christ from the field of their martyrdom were translated into eternal glory and the everlasting abode of peace," he said.

Justice Mackay said that he hoped the world would not be misunderstood. "It is not my desire to attempt to stimulate denominational vanity. It adds nothing to the greatness of our church to trumpet forth our virtues in elaborate panegyrics, but on the other hand there is every reason why we should be filled with gratitude to God for what we believe is a Holy enthusiasm for what we believe is a Divine system of truth under God, we have been made instruments for the promotion of His Glory and the well-being of society throughout the world."

He quoted "an outstanding leader of another denomination" when speaking of the Presbyterian Church he said: "It is the conservator of the most valuable principles. All denominations look to Presbyterianism for wise leadership in all that pertains to civil and religious life."

"The influence which the Presbyterian Church has exacted by its emphasis on these two sacred institutions—the observance of the Sabbath amid preservation of the family, has been truly immeasurable and incalculable. Within the last few years a world-renowned commentator, not in any way allied to our Church said: 'The world has never known a higher type of robust and sturdy manhood, nor a gentler purer or more lovable womanhood that prevailed among those people who imbibed principles of the Calvinistic Creed with its comingled elements of granite strength and stability and of progress, because Divine, tenderness and grace.'"

Speaking of "those who criticize Presbyterianism," His Lordship said that "the very few critics prefer its people as business associates because they know where the doctrine of man's obligation to God and man is emphasized and practiced, there their capital may be safely invested."

He said that "not all of our people realize that Roman Catholicism and the Presbyterian system are the only Christian Churches that are found in every country of the habitable globe and in all the islands of the sea."

The "habitual, historical and freely-admitted superiority of our Church in the realm of education and intellect did not come about by accident but is the fruit of our creed," he declared. "It gives foundation, consecration and inspiration to human thought by its sublime doctrine of the unity, stability and order of all things in God."

"It is superfluous and could be interpreted as vain-glorious to mention the galaxy of world figures in the old world and in the new, given by our Church to Divinity, Government, Philosophy, Literature, history, industry, commerce and finance, as well as in every department of science. Has this not been due to large measure to the principles of order and discipline of our Church?" he asked.

The speaker declared that Christian democracy is seen at its highest and best in the manner in which the unity of liberty and discipline operates in the Presbyterian Church. It is a government in which justice, freedom and order are assured.

CONSERVATION NEWS!

Fire Prevention

Build campfires only on rock, sand, gravel or mineral soil—near water! Clear away all inflammable debris and overhanging branches. Keep your fire small—it will give enough heat.

When you leave your campfire—even for a few minutes—put it dead out, with water! And before you move on, pour more water around the edges and take a final feel of the ashes to be certain no live embers remain.

Never smoke while walking or working in the bush or on the trail. Be a good woodsman—sit down to smoke.

Crush out cigarette butts and pipe heels on rock, or throw them in water. Break matches in two and hold until cold.

Use vacuum bottles to carry hot drinks whenever possible—helps reduce the use of fire and consequently the fire hazard.

Use a spark arrester on your cabin chimney and a standard refuse burner for destroying rubbish.

In every way possible—pay it safe! You can PREVENT FOREST FIRES—try it!

Timber Management

A welcome addition to the Timber Management Staff is Mr. Bob McKendry. Bob has been employed with the Forest Resources Inventory before coming to the Tweed District. Bob is married and he and his wife will make their home in Tweed.

Fish and Wildlife

Over the past holiday week-end of the 24th, one of the trap-nets which was being operated by the Scientific Branch, disappeared from Devil Lake in Frontenac County.

This fishing is an important part of the scientific studies which are going forward to discover the extent of productivity and the carrying capacity of the different species of fish in the waters, at the present time.

The removal of this net is being thoroughly investigated, with sufficient information secured, to refer the matter to the local Provincial Police Detachment. Much embarrassment would be avoided if this net was returned to the point from which it was taken.

Nuisance beaver are completing their usual spring dams and flooding tilted lands. Officers are as busily engaged each day with dynamite, removing these offending obstructions.

Anglers are out in good numbers but most report poor fishing.

North Hastings W.I. Holds Annual

The forty-sixth Annual meeting of North Hastings Women's Institute was held on Monday, May 31st, in Queensboro United Church, with Mrs. J. Horsepool, District President, presiding.

The church was nicely decorated with spring flowers for the occasion.

The meeting opened with the Institute Ode and Mary Stewart Collect.

The honoured guests and visiting branches were welcomed by Miss Richards, of Queensboro, in the absence of Mrs. J. Moore. A member of the Eldorado Branch made a very fitting reply.

The minutes of the last District Annual were read and approved. The financial and auditors' reports were read showing another fine year's work.

Mrs. Horsepool then extended a very warm welcome to Miss Irene McBride, Representative from the Dept. of Women's Institute Branch and Home Economics Service, Toronto; to Mrs. E. Irwin, Federal Board Rep. and to all visitors from the district. She outlined some of her work, and said she had enjoyed her visits very much. She spoke in regard to the A.C.W.W. held in Toronto last year and of some of the very fine reports and words of congratulations brought to us from delegates from nearly all over the world. She said that friendship and understanding were two of the things that were very important today in Institute work. She spoke of the very fine work of the W.I. today and stated that she had also organized a new Institute Branch in North Hastings recently.

In closing, Mrs. Horsepool read a poem entitled, "My Place," which summed up the work of each Institute member.

Reports of Standing Committees

Agriculture and Canadian Industries was given by Mrs. C. Bailey; ICitizenship and Education, Mrs. Moon; Community Activities and Public Relations, Mrs. McMaster; Historical Research and Current Events, Mrs. C. Price; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. F. Cosbey; Resolutions, Mrs. Gordon, in absence of Mrs. Brady; Junior Institute Activities, Mrs. F. Bailey, Cooper; Girls' Club Work, Mrs. D. Clancy. Each gave an outline of work done and all showed a fine year's work.

Miss Irene McBride brought greetings from the Department. She spoke of the beauty of Queensboro and said how happy she was to be at the meeting. She read a report from Miss Eady on "Homemaking Clubs," stressing the need of these clubs. She pointed out the need of the interest that should be taken in regard to agriculture today. As Institute Branches, we should practise other activities, besides just the Roll Call and Motto at our meetings. She recommended discussion periods and Historical Research work.

The Extension Service was dealt with at some length and Miss McBride pointed out that the form in regard to our short courses must be in early leaving plenty of time for the Department to make their plans. She also urged the use of the Loan Library.

Dinner was served to the ladies by the Queensboro Women's Institute Branch in Queensboro hall.

Afternoon Session

Community singing was led by Mrs. F. Bailey, of Cooper.

A minute's silence was observed for the deceased members.

Mrs. E. Irwin, Rep. of Fed. Board, welcomed the visitors and said how happy she was to be with us again. She gave a very interesting and educational report of the Institute work. As this was her last year of office as Fed. Board Rep., she said she was not leaving Institute work and would be glad to give any help or assistance in the future and wished the incoming members every success for the future.

Next was a short skit put on by the Ivanhoe Branch, which proved very humorous and was much enjoyed by everyone present.

Mrs. Percy Gray sang a solo, "The Rose of Tralee."

The Question Box was dealt with by Miss McBride and Mrs. Irwin. Mrs. N. Broad, in her usual capable manner, gave a history of the Folk School from its earliest beginning up to the present time. Mrs. Herrington gave a very fine report on the Guelph Conference.

After the Roll Call Rylstone Branch was presented with a lovely Gavel as their prize for having the largest percentage of members attending the meeting.

Guest speakers and authorities from as far distant as California will be in attendance.

The annual Livestock Conference, which in the past has been held jointly with the Poultry Conference, will this year be held at the O.A.C. on October 27th, when the McGilvray Lectureship, a feature of the Livestock Conference, will also be given.

A copy of the Poultry Conference programme is available now at the office of your Agricultural Representative.

DAIRY COMPETITION JUDGE SUPPLIED MILK TO KING

The young farmers of Ontario who enter the 1954 Junior Farmers' Quality Milk Production competitions on Dairy Day, Wednesday, June 16th, will find they will be facing judges who really know their milk.

Committee Chairman, Jas. L. Baker of the Ontario Dairy Branch, stated that included in the panel of judges would be Peter Connors, of Gormley, who has long been famous for quality production from his herd.

According to Mr. Baker, Mr. Connors was selected to supply the milk for the Royal Party when King George VI visited Ontario.

Mr. Connors, who graduated from O.A.C. in 1920, has for many years been held in high esteem as a quality producer.

CANADIAN HOLSTEINS SELL WELL AT U.S. CONVENTION SALE

The annual sale held in connection with the national convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America on June 3rd at Grand Rapids, Michigan, brought a total of $86,625 on 99 head for an average of $875. Several Canadian Holsteins were amongst those sold.

J. E. Houck & Sons, Brampton, Ont., received $2,200 for Houchholme Starfire, a nine-month old bull calf that went to Chambrick Holstein Farms, Rockford, Ill. This was the second highest price for a bull, the top being $2,550 paid by the Kentucky Artificial Breeding Association, Louisville, Ky., to Lakefield Farms, Clarkston, Mich. for Lakefield Fobes Baron, whose dam is an 1140 lb. cow bred by Harvey Nigh, Springfield, Ontario.

David R. Stevens, St. Mary's, sold a six-year-old cow to T. E. Courtney, DeKalb, Ill., at $2,000 and J. J. E. McCague, Alliston, a bred heifer at $1,025 and a bull calf at $1475, the latter being the last son of the noted Marksman.

Raymondale Farm, Vaudreuil, Que., paid $2,050 for Carnation Farms, Carnation, ash., for Carnation Northman, the Reserve All-American Junior Yearling bull of 1953.

Top price of the sale was $3,000 received by Estate of P. E. Pifer, of Kenosha, Wis., from Percy Jones, Denver, Colo., for a six-year-old cow. 23 head sold for $1,000 or more with eight between $200 and $3,000.

Amongst the bidders were Ed. Don George, former World Champion wrestler, who has established a Holstein herd near Buffalo, and Col. J. C. McLean, chief test pilot for the U.S. Army Air Force.

Weed of The Week

ONCE GRAVEYARD ORNAMENTAL NOW CROP ROTATION KILLER

Brought from Europe over 100 years ago and planted in many early graveyards as an ornamental, Leafy Spurge has long since escaped its confines and today is the death of many crop rotations, reports the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The seed is one of five classed as prohibited noxious. This means that seed containing even a single seed of this weed cannot be used as seed.

For excessive infestations on arable land intensive cultivation will cut down but not eradicate this weed. On rough grassland repeated spraying with 2,4-D at 1 to 2 pounds of acid per acre will reduce the stand. Small patches may best be cleaned out by the use of soil sterilants such as sodium chlorate or boron compounds at 5 to 6 pounds per square rod. This should be followed up by repeat applications to kill any survivors.

Leafy Spurge, growing 2 to 3 feet high with erect stems from which long narrow bluish green leaves extend, flowers from June to September. It should be prevented under all circumstances from going to seed. The stems and rootstock have been traced 10 feet deep in the soil. With such a base it is easy to understand why once an area is infested farmers cannot hope to eradicate this weed in one or two seasons. Each piece of a root can send up a new shoot, so spraying and pasturing with sheep permits the farmer to live with this refugee from the graveyard while he gradually weakens it by repeated attacks.

HOLSTEIN OWNED BY McFARLAND'S, PICTON, WINS SILVER SEAL CERTIFICATE

One of the great producers of the Holstein grade is Inka Pluto Vale, owned by H. J. McFarland, of Picton, Ontario. She has just completed her seventh consecutive lactation on official Record of Performance test, giving her a lifetime total of 162,528 lbs. milk containing 5,482 lbs. fat and qualifying her for Silver Seal Certificate of longtime production presented by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada.

The average production for each of Inka's seven lactations is 23,218 lbs. milk which is the equivalent of 9,287 quarts of milk.

Back in 1947 Inka as a senior four-year-old produced 28,893 lbs. milk in 365 days on three-times-a-day milking which at that time was a World Championship mark for milk production. She had previously as a three-year-old produced 20,200 lbs. milk and followed these two great records up with a six-year-old production of 20,870 lbs. milk, a seven-year-old production of 26,360 lbs. milks, an eight-year-old production of 30,712 lbs. milk and a ten-year-old 305 day record of 14,113 lbs. milk. Her latest record is 21,350 lbs. milk. In all except the one lactation she was milked twice daily and her eight-year-old record of 30,712 lbs. milk is the second highest for milk ever completed in Canada on twice-a-day milking.

Inka was bred by Jas. R. Anderson, Belleville, Ontario.

WEEDS SMOTHER PASTURE LAND

Much of the pasture land of Ontario has deteriorated with thin sod, slow growth, low yields and invasion by such weeds as Ox-eye daisy, Paint Brush, Blue Weed and others.

Revolution of these areas involves weed control, fertility and introduction of grass and clover suitable to the location, as recommended in a pamphlet by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. If the land is tillable, these steps present no great difficulty. However, where steep slopes, poor drainage or rocks prevent any tillage or even mowing the weeds, alternative measures must be taken.

"Since weeds consume large amounts of fertility and interfere with the establishment of new grass, the first step must be directed toward removing weed competition. Good weed control can be obtained by spraying with 2,4-D. To get maximum results, at least two treatments are necessary, the first in late spring or early summer, the second early in September. Avoid spraying during periods of extreme drought, and try to pick a calm day, as wind will cause uneven application of spray.

"Control of most pasture weeds requires from 12 to 16 ounces of 2,4-D acid per acre. Reseeding to suitable grasses should follow weed eradication to retard soil erosion and re-infestation.

New General Motors Plant At Oshawa Opens This Fall

Installation of equipment in the body assembly section of General Motors' new 43½ acre passenger car assembly plant at South Oshawa will begin in July. The chassis and final assembly section has been in production for some months. Full operation of the vast new plant is expected in the early fall, GM President William A. Wecker has announced, and the official opening will follow soon after.

The Oshawa assembly plants are the central section of a General Motors expansion program that has seen 100 million dollars invested in new plant and facilities across Canada since 1950.

The cross-Canada program entered its final stage this week with submission of tenders for a 92 thousand square foot office building. The administrative quarters will be erected at the site of the new assembly plant. Construction will be finished in the spring, completing the farthest-reaching schedule of planned investment in the company's history.

"Wide-scale investment at this time in new facilities at Oshawa, at St. Catharines, and across Canada, is in no sense a gamble," Mr. Wecker said. "It is General Motors' recognition of an entirely new market for automobiles in this country."

The vigorous state of the Canadian economy over the past few years, he said, has seen the density of cars in Canada reach one for every 6.5 people.

During the years just past which have marked the greatest advance toward this figure, four out of 10 of the vehicles sold in Canada have been General Motors products. In 1953 and the first quarter of 1954 GM vehicles accounted for 41 percent of the industry's sales across the country.

Production capacity goals at General Motors for the next 10 years and beyond have been set on the assumption that the rising Canadian market for cars will not be satisfied until the density ratio in Canada approaches the level in the United States — roughly one car to every four people.

To meet the demands of this new market, General Motors acquired a 400 acre parcel of land on the south-western outskirts of Oshawa in 1950. Construction of the office building announced recently by Mr. Wecker will bring to 58 acres the area of new building under roof at this site.

Adhering to General Motors' long-term policy of constantly stepping up the Canadian-built content of all GM products, a new foundry and manufacturing plant for engine production were built at St. Catharines. This phase of the development programme was carried out by McKinnon Industries, a subsidiary of the corporation which manufactures engines, axles, transmissions and other components for an industry-wide market.

Development of the Oshawa section of the programme was started in 1950 with construction of a 12½ acre Central Parts Distribution Warehouse, first step in the broadest expansion of parts distribution facilities ever undertaken by General Motors. The coast-to-coast programme tripled GM facilities for the storage and distribution of parts and accessories, bringing floor-space in General Motors parts warehouses to roughly 25 acres. New buildings were erected in Montreal, Vancouver, Saskatoon, London, Oshawa, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Regina and Moncton.

Entering the manufacturing phase of the Oshawa expansion, a 17 acre final assembly plant was erected at the new site. This section has been in operation since the early part of this year, producing Buick and Oldsmobile passenger cars.

An overhead body-conveyor bridge connects the final assembly section with a 25½ acre body assembly plant which will be ready for equipment installation by mid-July.

Occupancy of the new administrative building in the Spring of 1955 will complete the current programme at the South Oshawa site. Manufacture of all GM passenger car models will be concentrated in the new plants with production to begin this fall.

Existing GM production space in Oshawa will be re-arranged, with the bulk of the facilities turned over to truck manufacture.

At capacity, the combined Oshawa manufacturing plants will be capable of handling 1350 vehicles in a day, with more of the component parts wholly manufactured in Canada than ever before.

A parallel increase in the Canadian content of GM products will be achieved at the Grantham Township foundry and manufacturing plants of McKinnon Industries in St. Catharines.

The foundry, described as a "push-button" operation, is among the most modern on the continent. To reduce handling of castings, a manufacturing plant was built alongside the foundry. Taken together, the two units cover a roofed area of 43 acres.

Already in partial operation turning out Oldsmobile "88" engines, the full scale capacity of the plants will be concentrated on GM passenger car engines. Production will supplement present GM engine capacity in Canada, replacing a large proportion of the engines and components imported until now from the United States.

At the time of the official assembly plant opening in the Fall, the production potential of General Motors car manufacturing units will be more than 25 percent above the 1953 level. Investment and expansion by General Motors points the automobile industry, always a significant gauge of Canadian economic activity, toward sustained peaks of production.

Canada's railway mileage of 42,979 miles of single track is exceeded only by Soviet Russia and the United States.

"The Snow"

O, the Snow, the snow,
The beautiful snow,
We behold it around wherever we go;
It calls to us purity, happiness, peace,
And diligence, while of this life we have lease.

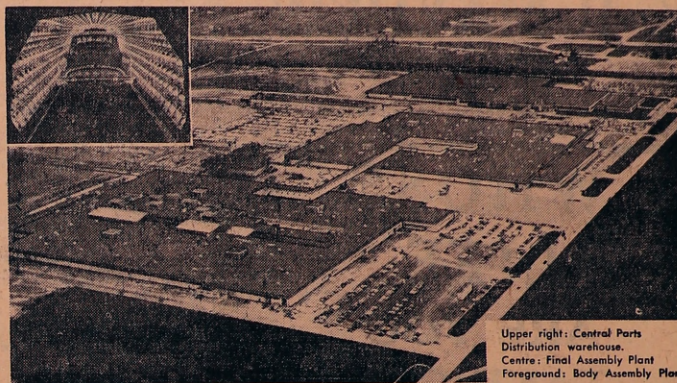

O the snow, the snow,
The beautiful snow
It beckons us upward wherever we go,
It reminds us of sin washed away in His blood,
Who for us Himself in this guilty world stood.

O the snow, the snow,
The beautiful snow
Shall we see it beyond wherever we go?
No, no not snow but the purified soul
Which live as long as the ages do roll.

O the snow, the snow,
The beautiful snow
Let us learn it's lesson as onward we go,
Our journey though long will be by and by past,

With Christ we shall dwell while the ages do last.
Composed by the late Rev. Dr. C. Graham Adams.

Canada's northern neighbor, Alaska, was purchased by the U.S. from Russia in 1867.

GENERAL MOTOR'S NEW ASSEMBLY PLANTS IN SOUTH OS HAWA

Fifty-six acres are under roof at the site of the largest automobile manufacturing center in Canada, General Motors' new assembly plants in south Oshawa. The factories (shown above) will be officially opened this fall, will produce all GM passenger cars built in Canada. In all-out production the modern assembly plants, which cover 43½ acres of the 56, will raise GM capacity by more than 25 per cent to 1350 vehicles a day. Insert at upper left shows infra-red paint drying oven, a new installation that bakes from inside out to produce tough high-gloss finish. The Oshawa development is one unit of a General Motors expansion programme that has seen 100 million dollars invested across Canada over the past four years.

Dafoe -- Barrie Nuptials At St. Andrew's

In a double ring ceremony before a background of spirea, tulips, iris phlox and oriental poppies, Marilyn May, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Barrie, Mill St., became the bride of Donald Allan Dafoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dafoe, Corbyville, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, at two o'clock on Saturday last. Rev. W. H. V. Walker officiated.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. H. Williams and Mrs. Roy Eggleton, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" preceding the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Lindrum Reilly, of Stockdale, the bride was charming in a gown of white chantilly lace over satin in waltz length, featuring a molded bodice with V-shaped neckline and full length sleeves ending in points over the hands. The skirt was accented by a panel of white accordion pleated net. She wore a full length veil of tulle illusion held by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and carried a full cascade of sweetheart roses tied with white lace.

Miss Helen Howard, of Belleville, was maid of honour, wearing a ballerina length gown of mauve net over taffeta with matching jacket, mitts and headress. She carried a nosegay of sweet peas and rosebuds. Miss Grace Barrie was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a ballerina length gown of yellow net over taffeta with net jacket, mitts and headress, and carried a nosegay of sweet peas and rosebuds.

Little Miss Gloria Reilly, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of pale green net over taffeta with matching mitts and headress and carried a basket of sweet peas and rosebuds.

Mr. John Dafoe, of Fort Erie, was his brother's groomsman and Messrs. Thomas (Ted) Dafoe, of Corbyville, brother of the groom, and Gordon Barrie, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlours, decorated with spring flowers. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with forget-me-not and fern. Mrs. Barrie received her guests in a gown of mauve flowered nylon, with white accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, in a gray flowered nylon gown, with mauve accessories, and wore a corsage of cream roses.

For travelling the bride chose a navy blue suit with white accessories and corsage of red roses. On their return from a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the young couple will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Trenton and Fort Erie, Ont.

Sandwiches, cake and oranges were served to end another social evening on Mill St.

Following is the address:

Dear Rev. and Mrs. Bonsteel:

It seems a very short time since we welcomed you to Mill St. by the din of pans, horns and shotguns. You have, since then, helped us in welcoming others to this end of the town and helped also in expressions of sympathy to those bereaved.

We have become very fond of you and in your choice of Bethany for a future home, could any place seem more fitting to take her. We would like her to have this small gift that she may have a remembrance from her first home.

We know you, Mr. Bonsteel, have had here possibly your greatest sorrow, in the passing of your mother, and also your greatest moments of happiness in this home where you brought your bride. We feel we have had some small part in sharing that sorrow and have also been fortunate to have shared for a short time the friendship of your gracious wife. She has endeared herself to us all.

In opening your home tonight for this gathering you have shown again your generosity and neighbourly love.

It is with regret as well as with our love that we ask you to accept these small gifts and may your sojourn in Bethany bring you many happy days and many new friends.

Signed on behalf of your neighbours, Mrs. Frank Harding, Mrs. E. Foster, Mrs. Norman Ray, Mrs. Lloyd Dafoe, Mrs. B. Wright, Mrs. R. Eggleton and Mrs. C. Vance.

Thieves forced their way into the office of F. R. Armstrong & Son, Front St. lumber merchants, on Saturday night and stole a 1200-lb. safe containing a small sum in cash and the books and records of the Company.

GIVE TO RECEIVE

If we want more pay, more regular pay; if we want more fringe benefits, more security, if we want more charity for ourselves or others, might we not ask ourselves one pertinent question? How much are we prepared to work or give or sacrifice to that end?

Disappearing Nurses

(Windsor Star)

A Detroit hospital authority tells us 50 percent of the nurses graduating disappear from the profession within three years due to marriage. This is despite many working after marriage. Indeed, in one hospital, 68 percent of the nurses are married women, many of them middle-aged who have returned to the profession after raising a family.

Marsh Hill School Wins Religious Education Contest

Last week marked the annual inter-school contest for Religious Education in Foxboro and surrounding school area. The area comprises of the schools of Zion Hill, Turner's, Marsh Hill and Foxboro, with five classes participating.

The various classes were judged for learning some 33 Scripture verses given with the lessons of the year, and memorizing a chosen portion of the Bible.

The teacher of the Religious Education, the Rev. H. W. Giffin, tested, carefully each class on their Scripture verses, heard the class as a whole repeat the chosen portion of the Bible passage, and to heighten the occasion, one representative of the class was chosen to repeat this passage, judged on public speaking ability, presentation and memorization.

This contest is in its third year. The first year was judged by the Rev. E.

Baker, of Stirling; the second year by the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, of Bay-side, and this year by the Rev. Ray Rowley, of Belleville.

The prize is a shield of oak to run until some school will win it three times. It is engraved in silver with the winning name plate added each year, and hung before the winning pupils.

The judge, Rev. R. Rowley, was gratified with what he heard and praised both pupil and teacher.

The competitive spirit was keen and decisions were quite close. When the final judging points were added up, Mr. Rowley found that by a few points Mrs. Good's pupils, of Marsh Hill School, were the winners of 1954 with a percentage of 87.

The Marsh Hill School was also the winner in 1953 and the Zion Hill School the winner in 1952.

Mr. George Alexander Greenley passed away suddenly early Thursday morning, June 3, in his 80th year, at his home, Percy Street North, Colborne. He had suffered for some time with a heart condition, but was able to be up each day around his home and garden. Retiring Wednesday evening in his usual health, in a few hours he had a severe attack from which he did not rally.

He was born in Percy Township, just north of Warkworth, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Greenley (nee Jane Hermiston). His childhood and boyhood were spent there on the farm, also residing there for some years following his marriage to Miss Annie White. They would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary next year. He operated a livery and express business in Hastings. Well trained in horsemanship, he had the best horses available in his stables. Disposing of this enterprise in 1917, he went to Toronto where he had a grocery store.

Sixteen years ago he retired and went to live in Colborne.

He was a member of Old St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, when his health permitted during his lifetime he took an interested, active part in Church activities. By his kindly, genial personality and quiet disposition he made many friends wherever he lived.

He was predeceased in 1929 by a son Everett and is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Carl (Helen) Davis, of Toronto; one son, Allan, of Stirling, manager of the Bank of Montreal; two grandsons, Reginald Greenley and William Greenley; one granddaughter, Ann Davis, all of Toronto; one sister, Mrs. Charles Plant (Myrtle), of Hastings.

Mr. Greenley rested at his late residence until Saturday afternoon, June 5th, when the funeral service was conducted by Rev. Norman Caswell, Minister of Old St. Andrew's Church, and Rev. Horace Kay, Lakefield, a former Minister of this Church. There was a large attendance of relatives, neighbours and friends. The pallbearers were all nephews of the deceased: Messrs. Harry Ewing, Chas. Ewing, Eldon Ewing, Donald Pollock, Donald Wright and Bruce White.

Interment took place in Trent Valley Cemetery, Hastings. Rev. H. Kay officiated at the graveside.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, silent witness of love and respect for the departed one, lovely expressions of sympathy to those so suddenly bereaved.

Relatives who attended from a distance included: Mr. and Mrs. Allan Greenley, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Carol Davis and daughter Ann, Mr. Reginald Greenley, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Greenley, Mr. and Mrs. H. Shire, all of Toronto; Mr. Ashton Daly, Detroit.

St. Paul's—Carmel News Items

(By Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E.)

Quarter Day was observed at St. Paul's and Carmel Churches last Sunday, being the last observance of this Pastorate. Mrs. Daniel Ketcheson was admitted to membership at St. Paul's on transfer from the Foxboro United Church.

Fifty Years of Service

A leather gold lettered hymnary was presented to Mr. R. A. Patterson in recognition of fifty years membership in the choir. The inscription described it as a token of the love and esteem of the choir and a recognition of service in which your fidelity, cheerfulness and co-operation has never been equalled. Your example has been and will continue to be an inspiration to each and every member of the choir for all time to come.

May the harmonies of God's praise and the remembrance of these years be a perpetual light in your life and an abiding satisfaction. Psalm 150.

The presentation was made by Mr. Jack Bush, vice-president of the choir. Mr. Patterson will now add his valued praise to that of the congregation.

More Chronicles

1. We would be remiss in reviewing the events of this Pastorate if we overlooked those associations and the fine help of those who have entered into their rest. Among these are James Hillyard Beatty, Mary Malvina Maynes, Mary Catharine Hawkins, Mary Martin, Thomas William Donohoe (who made the first bequest to the Endowment Fund), Miss Flossie Hulin, Trustee Roy B. Duffin and Elder Charles Herbert David.

Maude Marguerite Philip, Mary Iva Pyear, Elder William Edward Fitchett, Eva Edith Potter, Walter A. T. Barker, Elder William Heasman, Annie (Nugent) Preston (mother of the Royal Choir), Harry Potter, Trustee Clifford Ivan Hatton, Thomas Edward McCaughen, David Heath, Nettie Armenia Luery, William Morris, Sarah Ann Bradshaw, George Rupert.

Frances L. Whitton, William Elliott Maynes, Emily Beatrice Tucker, Nicholas Delbert Fleming and Trustee Gilbert Thompson.

Each of these and some others whose names ought to be chronicles were among those who directly or indirectly contributed to the spiritual ministry of this pastorate.

Some Special Citizens

2. Mrs. Sidmer Bird of the "Towers" has always been ready to share her home and to put her self about in the interest of the work. The pleasant and thoughtful care with which she has served and her interest in her grandson is most praiseworthy.

Mrs. Mary McCutcheon and Mrs. Arthur Gordanier, of Mill Street, whose attendance at public worship is commendable. The constancy of these good women would shame many younger housewives.

There is a group of well known men to be encouraged in their successful fight against alcoholism. It takes grace and grit to live down a bad reputation. It is the glory of Christianity that men may be twice born. The battle will be won by these men if they are steadfast.

One must not by-pass our Veterans. They are men of the kindly heart and willing hand. 'Tis true some are enemies of themselves but by and large they are not a "bunch of boozers." Even such whether Ex-Service-man or not, can be "overcome" by God's help and firm resolution.

Harvey and Mrs. Pitcher are among our kindly hearted folk. The former cheerfully provides comfort for the local "hot stove league" and the latter cheerfully shares with her husband ministries of the second mile.

George Luery is easily identified as "Mr. Stirling." His convictions are based on experience. His example as a pedestrian easily qualifies him for a place in the "Morning Glory Club." He is a survivor of the generation that was loyal to the Sunday evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Wright are commended as the "Victorians" of Henry St. They represent a culture that is both rare and priceless.

Dr. Carleton always has an effective and tellable story. He is co-operative and kind. We admire him but cannot support his policy re Religious Education in the Public School. His position on this question defeated his candidature and not school hours as some erroneously think. We predict however that he will make a come back as School Trustee.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hanna have given conspicuous leadership in supporting the St. Paul's Church Endowment Fund. They will be remembered for their initiative and generosity long after their critics are forgotten.

Mrs. C. H. David is one of God's true women. In her home there is no tension. You are made to feel at home. Here we have a real mother in Israel.

Neighbours

These are all kind folk, co-operative, given to share and friendly nevertheless church associations have made the interests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wells of distinction. As Treasurer of the Church Mr. Wells has been most co-operative. He has often paid in advance, a rare experience in the Ministry. Of Mrs. Wells it should be recorded that no matter how often or how pressed for time she always gave the invitation cheerfully to come in. At her home there was no standing at the door in uncertainty. She is a gracious hostess. As President of the W.A. she carried on even though at times poor health through a difficult year. Honey and garden products often found their way to the Parsonage from the Wells Aply and kitchen garden.

Among the senior women of the congregation few equal the attendance of Mrs. E. G. Bailey at church. Like her Councillor husband she is a guardian of the treasury. As such they serve well. We hope someday they will go on a real spending spree finding an even greater joy in support of the worthy causes they endorse.

There are many men and women of kind hearts and benevolent hands who appear to give first place to their fraternal associations. We think well of these good people but remind them that the First Commandment is still valid. God first and then these worthy, commendable but secondary interests afterwards.

Omission

The names of Miss Marilyn Rose should have been included in the list of those promoted from the Royal Choir to the Senior Choir on June 6th. The mission is regretted.

Nursing Home

Mrs. Geo. Green and her associates are to be commended for the fine service afforded at the Green Nursing Home. Everything is sweet and clean. Competent oversight is conducive to the care and comfort of all patients.

Birthdays

Happy birthday greetings were extended to Sue Ann Bastedo and Margaret Johnston at St. Paul's last Sunday.

Beautiful orange blossoms, iris and peonies were tastefully arranged in pedestal standards and vases by Mrs. Walter Elliott for the Sunday services at St. Paul's Church. They came from the gardens of Mrs. Wm. Fox, Mrs. Carleton Wright and the Mansion House.

At Carmel lilies and pink and white peonies in abundance decorated the church. Mrs. M. Hagerman cared for these in the absence of Mrs. Lorne Brooks.

Fairy Crosses

Mrs. Louise Anderson and Mrs. Harry Brown were invested with fairy stone crosses for meritorious services at Carmel last Sunday.

Shadow

Sunday was shadowed especially at Carmel by the accident in which Mrs. Everett Grills sustained serious injuries Sunday morning. Special prayers were offered for her care and recovery at the afternoon service.

Conservatory Examinations

On Saturday, June 26th, piano and vocal examinations will be held at St. Paul's Church by an Examiner from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto.

"A Man Called Peter"

Here are some highlights from this remarkable volume which can be read with profit by every adult.

God may not supply all your wants, because sometimes we want things that are not good for us.

We try to do too much in too short a time.

The British Medical Journal says: "There is not a tissue in the human body wholly removed from the influence of the spirit."

How do you expect to know what God is like if you never read intelligently the only Book that professes to tell you these things.

Freedom is not the right to do as one pleases but the opportunity to please to do what is right.

Our standard of values is out of focus. The reward for making people laugh is greater than the reward for making people think. A school teacher is paid $2,000; a comedian $1,000,000.

No nation on earth has more laws and yet more lawlessness than this nation.

This generation has distorted religious freedom to mean freedom from religion.

We need a return to government by principles—rather than by politics.

Peace is not made by compromise. It does not grow out of expediency.

Tell my trustees when I am dead That they should shed no tears For I shall be no leader than Than they have been for years.

(A reference to church trustees) Arab Proverb — He is the best preacher who can turn the ear into an eye.

Senate Prayer — "Teach us that liberty is not only to be loved but also to be lived — May Thy spirit move that there may be concession without coercion and conciliation without compromise."

The Church Family

The rich young ruler turned away from Jesus because he had great possessions. The enlightened Zaccarius said Lord the half of my goods I give to feed the poor and if I have taken anything wrongfully from anyone I make four-fold restoration. In every congregation and every society there are the "doers" and the "dodgers." The former are constantly looking for something to do to enlarge the Christian Ministry and to the content of human happiness. The latter are always trying to evade responsibility or do as little as possible. As a church member, choir member, Sunday School pupil, member of the Woman's Assoc., or Woman's Missionary Society, you are a "doer" or a "dodger." James counselled, "be ye doers of the word and not hearers only."

Mrs. L. Cassidy Hostess To The Springbrook W.I.

Mrs. Lindsay Cassidy was hostess to the Springbrook Women's Institute May meeting.

Mrs. S. Meiklejohn and Mrs. L. Cassidy were appointed delegates to the district convention at Queensboro. A donation of $5 was to be sent to the Salvation Army. The younger members entertained the grandmothers and Mrs. W. J. Barlow was chairman for a humorous programme: a reading, "Just Grandma," by Mrs. G. Webb; "Do's and Don'ts for Grandmothers," by Mrs. Carl Ray; a reading, Mrs. M. McMullen; a skit, by Mrs. Clarence McKeown, Mrs. Harold Stiles and Mrs. Cyril McKeown; and a monologue by Mrs. Gerald Burkitt.

The history of Springbrook was read from the Tweedsmuir book.

Mrs. Thomas Webb won a prize for being the oldest grandmother.

Amusing contests and refreshments closed a pleasant afternoon.

Mrs. E. Chambers Died At Foxboro

Mrs. Nellie Ruth Chambers passed away at her home in Foxboro late Sunday, June 6th. Mrs. Chambers was in her 54th year.

Born in West Huntingdon, the daughter of Mrs. Minnie Wallace and the late Henry Wallace, Mrs. Chambers lived in the locality all her lifetime. Her husband, Ernest Chambers, predeceased her in 1947.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers operated a store in Foxboro for a number of years, and were highly esteemed members of the community. Mrs. Chambers was a member of the Foxboro United Church, and was noted as one of its strongest workers. She assisted and worked for many of the church's projects and was a member of the Woman's Missionary Society, Women's Institute, and the Women's Auxiliary. She sang in the choir for a number of years.

Surviving besides her mother, are one daughter, Mrs. Cecil (Marion) Arthurs, Foxboro; one sister, Mrs. Roy (Hazel) Belshaw, Belleville; one brother, John Wallace, West Huntingdon, and two grandchildren.

Township Buys Fire Truck

Belmont and Methuen Council has decided to purchase a truck and tank with a 600-gallon-a-minute pump and all standard connections for fire-fighting at $1,650 from the C. E. Hickey Co., and minimum equipment for approximately $1,000.

Hatching Robins Make Frequent Truck Trips

A robin, which chose the bracket of the rear spring of his oil truck as the site for its nest, laid four eggs therein, and most recently hatched them out, is the wonder of Manley Laverder, Marmora business man, these days.

It is the more remarkable when it is known that this truck has been in frequent usage for oil delivery and also journeys including two to Peterborough, over this particular period.

The tenacity of the bird in this hatching period is to be noted, but once her young were born, she did not think it necessary to join them on their unusual jaunts.

However, she has not forsaken them and when the truck returns to the regular parking place in the Laverder yard, she is soon there to greet them, and feed them, unfledged as they still are.

Interesting Bird Life

Mr. Laverder has noted other things of interest regarding bird life on his premises. For three years a robin returned to build its nest and hatch its young outside his garage. The doors being left open the oftener this

DON'T GET A GOAT... GET A LAWN-BOY

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hills)

THE PRICE OF WHEAT

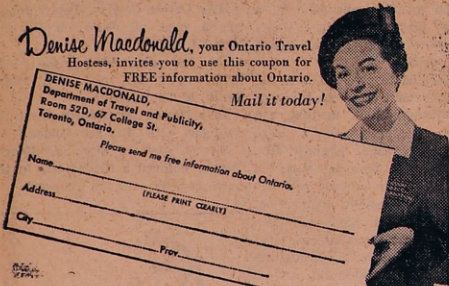

I have a daily newspaper beside me on my desk, and it carries a big headline. For anyone who stops to think a moment, the headline is sheer foolishness. It reads: "Government slashes the price of wheat."

How long are we going to fool ourselves? The Government, in reality, can neither cut the price of wheat nor boost it. That is done today as it has always been done in the past — by the consumer. Until somebody can get a corner on every fertile acre of land, everywhere in the world, the customers will continue to set the price of wheat.

In the very next paragraph of the newspaper story, some politician suggests that Mr. Howe should get into an airplane and fly to Europe to drum up some markets for our wheat. Mr. Howe is a mighty clever and important man, but that's some assignment! It's almost as ridiculous as asking him to fly to the North Pole and do something about the cold weather.

The sooner we all get over this notion that somebody in Ottawa can solve our buying and selling problems, the better off we'll be. Whether it's a crop of wheat, a subscription to the local weekly paper, or a seat in a theatre, you have to make the customer want it and you have to offer it at a price the customer is willing to pay.

ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF TRAVEL & PUBLICITY
HON. L. P. CECILE, O.C., MINISTER

HE FORGOT that a bit of wood preservative, applied at little cost when the fence was put in, would have saved him the cost of new posts now.

In the telephone business, as around your own home, we find it's better to do the job right in the first place and then look after it. It's the best way we know to avoid heavy repair and replacement costs, to save expense and give you most service for your money.

That's why we treat telephone poles against rot; why we keep our trucks clean and in good repair; why we put up exchanges and offices to last.

It's common sense if we are to keep our costs down—and the price of your telephone service low.

If you would like to get useful information on the preservative treatment of wood we suggest you write Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, Ottawa.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

I don't think very many people realize what serious trouble we are heading for. Farmers are just not going to be able to go on paying sky-high prices for their trucks and tractors, steel roofs for their barns, premium prices for almost everything they buy. City workers in manufacturing plants and in every industry which supplies the farmer, are certainly going to have to adjust their wage demands or the farmer will not be able to buy the manufactured products and we'll run into the old situation where we have poverty in the midst of plenty.

Then there'll be all sorts of wild and fancy schemes dreamed up to "cure" the situation. Most of these schemes will be just as silly as the ones which have already caused the situation we are facing. After we have all had a darn good spanking by the facts of life, we'll come back to earth and start selling our products and our labor at prices which our neighbors can afford to pay.

The worst of this situation is that the farmer is the first to take the licking, and he takes it for the longest period of time. True, he has been, to some extent, to blame. He should have learned long ago that Ottawa cannot keep his prices unrealistically high for any sustained period. Farmers should have been fighting to make city people understand that the price of manufactured products should bear some reasonable relationship to the price of wheat; that the farmer's hour of labor must be traded for the city worker's hour of labor.

Instead of doing that, too many organized farm groups have encouraged city workers to keep grabbing more and more. Farmers should remember that most wheat buyers live overseas and they don't get that kind of money. Farmers should get together now and demand tax relief, sharp reduction in welfare spending, realistic labor policies. If they don't, we'll all be in the soup.

CONSERVATION NEWS!

Forest Protection

Showers during the week-end helped ease the fire danger and hazard conditions were generally low to medium throughout the District.

One small fire was extinguished in the Bancroft area in Faraday Township, apparently caused by carelessness with burning, smoking material.

Rangers were employed mainly on improvement projects, maintenance and inspection jobs. Bancroft and Dacre Chief Ranger Office projects being completed, also three bathhouses under construction at Gull Lake, Long Lake and Brule Lake in the Plevna area.

Fish and Wildlife

Trout fishing in the Denbigh area this week has been good, especially lake trout. Several parties were checked with their count of fish.

A black duck's nest was found with 12 eggs in it but they showed no sign of hatching. Mourning Doves were seen in Denbigh this week, it is very seldom that this bird is seen in that area.

Beaver have again started their dam building and to date seven dams will require blowing out.

Waterfowl Breeding Stock

Each year over most of the North American Continent checks are made on the waterfowl breeding stock in spring and on the broods they produce in the summer. The purpose of these checks is to provide facts upon which the hunting seasons and bag limits for waterfowl can be based. In the early 1940's ducks and geese were badly overhunted and the present programme is designed to provide insurance against this happening again.

Drought and storms may destroy the production of even a record density of breeding stock and a small number of breeders can produce a good crop if weather, cover, food and water conditions are suitable.

Results from this check of breeding stock in the Tweed District this year indicate little change from 1953 for most species but there seem to be fewer Black Duck in the south and Ring-necked duck in the Conroy Marsh.

An outstanding feature of the waterfowl migration this spring was the return of hundreds of Brant Geese to the shores of Lake Ontario. They were only accidental visitors in spring up to 1953 when the first large flight passed through.

The largest flocks have so far been seen on the Salmon Shoal and Snake Island off Kingston, at Wellers Bay in Prince Edward County and near Amherst Island.

These Geese breed beyond the Arctic Circle in Canada and Greenland. They leave very late for their nesting grounds which remain frozen until mid-June.

Bancroft Tax Rate 160 Mills

A mill rate of 160 mills, the highest in the history of Bancroft, was decided on by the Village Council at a recent meeting. The village equalized assessment was increased from $189,000 to $486,000. This rate is an increase of 43 mills over last year.

Low Iodine Diet Causes Thyroid Tumors

After a four-year experiment involving some 500 rats Dr. Arthur Axelrad of McGill University has demonstrated that a low iodine diet will produce thyroid tumors in experimental rats. It has long been known that a lack of iodine often results in an enlargement of the thyroid gland and that regularly taking iodine in the form of iodized salt, for instance, will prevent goitre. However, Dr. Axelrad's work constitutes the first controlled experiment to measure the exact effect of lack of iodine in the diet on tumor growth.

Since iodine is present in minute forms in many foods, it was first necessary to measure the iodine content of grains and to find grains that contained practically none. The amount of iodine permitted in each feeding was less than one thirty-millionth of an ounce. The diet was mostly corn with wheat gluten, yeast, a minute quantity of liver and salts.

Another problem was the existence of goitre-producing elements in foods. These are known as goitrogens and are found in many of our common foods. In order to be sure it was lack of iodine and not goitrogens that caused the tumors to develop all foods had to be carefully tested for their presence.

The results of the controlled experiment were most conclusive. During the first nine months of the low iodine diet all of the rats developed enlarged thyroids. From 10 to 25 months tumors developed in the goitres of all the rats. Some of these tumors were very small some were large. Some were fast growing others slow growing. Most of them were benign tumors but a few were malignant tumors and could be called cancers.

When the iodine was replaced in the diet of the rats with goitres and no tumors the goitres went away. When iodine was replaced in the diet of the tumor bearing rats the tumors did not go away.

Since a human-being lives on the average 25 times as long as a rat the 10 to twenty-five months required to produce the tumor in the rat would correspond to roughly 20 years to 50 years in humans.

Dr. Axelrad's experiments were carried out under the direction of Dr. C. P. Leblond, one of the research directors of the National Cancer Institute of Canada, and were supported by the Canadian Cancer Society. The results constitute one more known fact about the growth of tumor cells in living tissue. Another small brick in the vast structure of knowledge that may ultimately lead to a complete understanding of the cause of cancer.

TRUE OR FALSE

The belief that pan-heating will bring down a swarm of bees is very old, but modern authorities give it no credence. Aristotle mentions it in his writings, and the poet Virgil states it as a fact in the Fourth Georgic. The custom is practised widely throughout the world today.

How To Get More Sleep

Ten hints on how to sleep well are given by British science writer, Chapman Pincher, in his book, "How To Get More Sleep."

He advises: shed your worries before you shed your clothes; go to sleep early enough to get all the sleep you need; go to bed with a satisfied but not overburdened stomach; ensure complete darkness in the bedroom; fix that dripping tap and that noisy cistern; take pains to make yourself as comfortable as possible in bed; never count sheep; try deliberately relaxing your muscles; try to convince yourself that you will go off to sleep; if you still have a few bad nights, don't worry, and do not be scared to take sleeping drugs if these are prescribed by your doctor and you keep meticulously to his dosage.

DEMAND FOR COTTAGE SITES INCREASE

The approaching school closing with the promise of a long vacation has produced an increase in the demand for a plot of land, located along a lake shore on which a cottage may be built.

Approximately 1,000 such parcels have been laid out in the Tweed Lands and Forests District to date, and may be purchased at a nominal sum according to the regulations concerning sales of this nature.

Details of the methods used in selling and the location of parcels may be obtained by writing to the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed.

Preliminary figures for April showed 33 strikes and lockouts in existence, involving 2,268 workers with a time loss of 24,661 man-working days, as compared with 18 work stoppages in March, 1954, with 1,722 workers involved and a time loss of 13,945 days. Weed of The Week

FIELD BINDWEED TENACIOUS OF LIFE

Five weeds in Canada are classified as "prohibited noxious" and Field Bindweed is one of these five. The Field Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, warns that seeds can stay in the soil not five, but six times five years. Also called Wild Morning Glory, this pest sends roots 4 feet or more into the soil. Even small pieces of this root system when cut off, will send up shoots and grow again. Slender twining stems and narrow arrow shaped leaves feature its growth. White or pink trumpet shaped flowers in June to September sound a call to battle to the alert farmer.

Intensive cultivation and smother crops weaken the stand. Cultivation should be at least 4 inches deep and repeated 1 to 2 weeks later.

Repeated applications of up to 1 pound or more of 2,4-D acid per acre in June and in late fall will kill most plants. Soil sterilants such as sodium chlorate at 6 pounds per square acre, or borax at 10 to 11 pounds per acre can be used on small patches. C.M.U. at about one-half pound in 3 gallons of water per square rod has also given good results. Regardless of the treatment remember the seeds can live 30 years in the soil so retreat the area whenever new plants emerge.

OCTOBER 5th DEADLINE FOR PLOWING MATCH ENTRIES

F. A. Lashley, Secretary-Manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, emphasized that contestants in the International Plowing Match to be held in Waterloo County, October 12, 13, 14 and 15, must have their entries in his hands not later than October 5.

In previous years entries were accepted during the match. The new policy applies to local contestants as well as those from other sections of the province. Entries for all four days of the match will have to be in the Secretary-Manager's hands before the October 5th deadline.

Present indications are that the Waterloo County match will be the largest in the history of the province. "Tent City," always a feature of the International, will be bigger than ever.

Applications for space by exhibitors and caterers are already being received on a scale which indicates that this year's show will surpass previous efforts.

TURNIP PROTECTION GUIDE AVAILABLE TO GROWERS

The Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture announces that a Turnip Protection Guide for 1954 is available free of charge from offices of agricultural representatives; Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, or from Field Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

The Guide is printed in such a form that it may be tacked up in a convenient place for ready reference. In practical terms it briefly outlines the more important diseases and pests which affect turnips from planting time to after harvest. It gives complete instructions for seed treatment to avoid black leg; includes a precaution about 2,4-D injury and gives directions for applying borax to avoid water core or brown heart.

For the first time in history, a recommendation is made in order to avoid damage from root maggots which burrow into the flesh, thus reducing the market value of turnips. Control measures for other important insects are also given such as the striped flea beetle, commonly known as the turnip fly, and aphids, better known as turnip lice. These two insects have completely ruined many turnip crops but can now be avoided by application of the newer chemicals.

The protection chart for growers has been made available at the request of the Turnip Committee of The Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

MILK PRODUCTION SHOULD BE INCREASED AGAIN THIS YEAR

Even though Canadian per capita consumption of dairy foods increased in 1953, our ability to produce milk outstripped our ability to consume milk and milk products. Officials of Dairy Farmers of Canada, the national producers' organization, are speculating as to the effects of increased cow population, lower prices and the current surplus situation if 1954 should turn out to be another better than-average pasture year. Milk production in 1953, which was up 700 million pounds, or 4 per cent, over 1952, will be increased again this year should there be an abundance of grass.

Dairy farmers are aware of another factor which exerts a powerful influence on farm production. In a period when farm prices are dropping, as at present, the farmer gets caught in an economic squeeze for his costs of production never drop as soon, or as fast, as do prices for the products he has to sell. Consequently, with bills to be paid he has no alternative but to increase his production to maintain his income level. Farm income was at its peak in 1951 when it was 12.3 per cent of the national total. In 1953 farm income had dropped to 8.7 per cent of the national income.

With the prospect of some dairy surpluses next year, Dairy Farmers of Canada emphasize the necessity for expanding their advertising and public relations program. They point out that for many years this has been the standard practice of large manufacturing enterprises who do more advertising, not less, when product has to be moved in a tight competitive situation. It is the view of Dairy Farmers that, for health reasons also, Canadians can, and should be eating more dairy foods. While consumption of most dairy foods is increasing, consumption of fluid milk still lags at an average of .88 of a pint per person per day. This curious condition exists in spite of the fact that for years nutritionists have been warning the public that a minimum of three glasses of milk per day is needed by each person.

GREECE PLANTS CANADIAN POTATOES

Canada's first shipment of seed potatoes to Greece is being planted this spring in competition with seed imported from England, Holland and West Germany, reports the Canadian Commercial Secretary in Athens.

The shipment consisted of 430 tons of Sebago and Katahdin varieties supplied by two Canadian firms. They were mostly of Grade B size of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick origin.

Only a small portion of the seed potatoes required in Greece is produced locally — a little over 1,000 tons in 1952. During that year another 8,800 tons were purchased from England, Holland and West Germany, most of them of the Irish Banner variety.

A leading Greek Ministry of Agriculture official states he expects Greek potato growers will find Canadian seed so satisfactory that they will fill a large part of their annual requirements from the Canadian varieties next year. If this occurs it will indicate the effectiveness of the close co-operation between Canadian growers and the Department of Agriculture's inspectors in the production and certification of Canadian seed potatoes.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO THE CHEESE FACTORIES?

Are the little crossroads cheese factories going the way of the little red schoolhouses? There is not much doubt about it according to the records of the Markets Information Section and the Dairy Products Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Since 1948 the number of factories in Ontario has dropped from 451 to 262, and in Quebec from 230 to 109. Most of the other provinces which make cheese — and they all do except Nova Scotia and Newfoundland — show some reduction. Prince Edward Island dropped from 9 to 5, New Brunswick from 8 to 7, Manitoba from 19 to 7, and Alberta from 17 to 11. Saskatchewan still has the 6 factories she had in 1948 and British Columbia actually has increased from one factory to two in the same period, but the general trend is definitely to fewer and larger factories.

Closing of the small factories has been due to the replacement of two or three such factories with one large plant and also to diversion of milk from cheese to other dairy products in order to satisfy an increasing domestic demand created by larger population.

This is indicated by the average production per factory. Ontario's 1953 production of graded cheese was 2,276 cheese per factory for the 262 factories, as compared with 1,592 per factory for the 451 factories listed in 1948. In Quebec the average production for these same years was 693 and 581 respectively.

Merging of the small factories into one larger plant has been made possible by the ease of transporting milk longer distances by truck as compared with horse-drawn vehicle, but it has been stimulated by the amalgamation program of the Federal Department of Agriculture introduced in 1939. In most cases two or three small factories were merged into one, after one of them had been renovated or replaced with a new building. New equipment was usually installed to assist in the production of high quality cheese, the Federal Government bearing part of the cost of making the necessary changes.

In a few cases one large central plant has replaced a whole group of factories, as in the Lake St. John area of Quebec, where a new plant at Chicoutimi replaced 12 small factories, or the new combined cheese and butter factory just opening at Summerside, P.E.I., which replaces three former cheese factories and three butter factories.

Payment of a premium for high scoring cheese — those scoring 93 points or more out of 100 — may also stimulate the merging of small factories since it is often difficult for such factories to install the necessary equipment or employ fully qualified cheesemakers. This is indicated by the fact that 21 factories in Ontario and Quebec from which less than 100 cheese per factory were graded in 1953 had an average of less than 80 percent First Grade cheese, whereas 22 of the largest factories in the two provinces averaged over 95 percent First Grade.

Relative importance of cheese production in the various provinces is best shown by the number of boxes graded in each province. For 1953 the figures were: P.E.I. 4,430; N.B. 8,597; Que. 75,646; Ont. 596,479; Man. 13,074; Sask. 2,290; Alta. 30,555; B.C. 6,360. The total of 737,431 boxes for all Canada in 1953 was an increase of 52,052 boxes over 1952 but considerably below the 1949 total of 1,181,766 boxes.

MOST HYPERTENSION MILD AND HARMLESS

Most cases of hypertension (high blood pressure) are, contrary to popular opinion, mild and fairly harmless, according to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation. An article by Dr. Alvarez, entitled "How To Live With Your Blood Pressure," appeared in the current issue of "Family Doctor," published by the British Medical Association.

"To a lot of people, the very words 'high blood pressure' always mean a serious and fatal disease," Dr. Alvarez writes. "But happily they are wrong. On the average their span of life will be a little shorter than that of persons with a normal pressure and this is why insurance companies hesitate to accept them. But many of them will live comfortably into their sixties, and some will go even into their seventies."

"The one thing you really have to know," says Dr. Alvarez, "is that in all but a few cases the disease is what is called an essential hypertension, and no localized cause will ever be found to explain it. So there is no point in going on for year after year seeing different doctors and asking for repeated examinations. Even if the doctor should find some minor local disease, its removal would not alter the raised blood pressure."

Every doctor who has looked after men and women with high blood pressure can tell several stories of patients who were advised to prepare for the end and then went on to live for 25 or 30 more fruitful years, according to Dr. Alvarez.

FLUORIDATION CAN'T CHANGE WATER TASTE

Complaints about unpleasant tasting water in communities where water supplies are being fluoridated are either imaginary or are based on the presence of other substances in the water, according to the Fluoridation Committee of the Health League of Canada.

Recently a group of citizens in Brantford, which has been experimenting with fluoridation, organized to agitate for discontinuance of the experiment on grounds that the water tasted bad. The Fluoridation Committee points out that the source of Brantford water is such that it requires considerable chemical treatment and would have a distinct taste with or without the addition of sodium fluoride. Sodium fluoride is tasteless even in large concentrations, and certainly cannot affect the taste of water in the prescribed dilution ratio of one part per million.

In fact, one of the arguments of the "scientific" opponents of fluoridation is that fluorine, unlike chlorine, is tasteless, and that therefore one cannot be warned when a high concentration is present. The Fluoridation Committee of the Health League maintains that this argument, too, is fallacious, since it implies that a water department can inadvertently or maliciously poison public water supplies. According to the pamphlet "Facts on Fluoridation," published this year by the Canadian Dental Association, it would be necessary to dump half a year's supply (about eight tons) of sodium fluoride into the Brantford water supply in one day in order to obtain toxic effects.

The exclamation point is gradually going out of use. People aren't surprised at anything any more.

In the Great Lakes alone is one-half of the fresh water supply of the entire world.

To Change Style Auto License

New-style licence plates are to be carried by Ontario vehicles in 1955, Highways Minister Doucett announced.

No letters will appear on the first 999,999 passenger car plates and from then on, one letter will be used for each 100,000.

Mr. Doucett said a registration plate is only as legible as its smallest figure or letter and there had been considerable confusion in attempting to distinguish between such letters as V and Y, N and M, C and G.

Although the figures on the new plates will be half an inch shorter than those now used, the legibility of the plate will be increased by omitting the three-inch letters, officials said.

Sea Cadet

Drowns In Moira River

An epileptic seizure is believed the cause of the accidental drowning Friday night of Sea Cadet Robert Jury, 16, whose body was taken from the Moira River only three minutes after he disappeared from sight.

The teen-ager son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jury, Belleville, had been swimming within shouting distance of a brightly decorated dance floor where a gay Sea Cadet dance was being held.

Members Stirling Lodge, A.F. & A.M. Attend Divine Worship At St. John's

Rev. H. C. Secker Delivers
Fine Sermon on "Recovery of Christian Thought"

Members of Stirling Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 69, attended St. John's Anglican Church for divine worship on Sunday evening at eight o'clock. Approximately seventy-five members of the craft paraded from the Masonic Temple on North St., led by V. Wor. Bro. Thos. W. Solmes, director of ceremonies.

Rev. H. C. Secker, rector, conducted the service assisted by Wor. Bro. H. R. Tompkins, Chaplain of the Lodge, who read the second lesson, Romans 6: 1-13. Mr. N. Stewart led in the responsive reading and Mr. R. Andrews read the first lesson.

Mrs. Burton Woodbeck rendered a solo, "O Rest In The Lord." Miss Ruth Mumby presided at the console of the organ.

The rector spoke on "The Recovery of the Christian Thought" and reminded his hearers that the beginning of living a Christian life begins with Christian thinking. Christianity began as a thought, beginning with God who created the universe, man and the things of the world. As a result of wrong thinking man strayed from God, who sent his son Jesus Christ, to save the world. The penitent thought of Peter, which led to his conversion, and the prodigal son were examples of the results of right thinking.

"Any thought to improve the material good of the nation is good," stated the Rector, "but too much thought of the material things is what is wrong with the world today. What we need is more of the spiritual thinking. Christian thinking is not easy, requires hard work, persistency and concentration, and through it we can conquer the walls of sin. Within the portals of the church we may think and learn of Christ and be lifted up in a Christian way."

"As members of the Masonic fraternity we are challenged to recover true Christian thinking which will inspire us to play our part in a revival of spiritual living — the only thing that will save the world," concluded the speaker.

Presentation To Mr. N. Stewart

At the conclusion of the service Mr. Ralph Andrews, Vice-President of St. John's Men's Association, presented Mr. N. Stewart, who is leaving for Edmonton, Alta., with a Book of Common Prayer on behalf of St. John's Church.

Horticultural Society To Hold Garden Meeting Next Week

On Tuesday afternoon, June 29th, a meeting of the Stirling Horticultural Society will be held at the home of President F. W. Houchin, at 148 Church Street, for the purpose of a tour of gardens and an afternoon of Horticultural hobnobbing. Members and friends will assemble at 1:30 p.m. and groups will proceed by cars to local gardens of interest.

Invitations have been received from Mrs. W. Ashby and Mrs. J. H. Beatty to see their gardens on the Trent River and these out-of-town beauty spots will be well worth a visit. Come for the afternoon, or as long as you can stay. The meeting is quite informal and everyone will be home for tea. Dist. Director, Mr. E. Law is expected, and the afternoon should prove both instructive and enjoyable. This is the best time of the year to keep the Exchange of Horticultural material in mind and perhaps during the past year there were times when you noticed horticultural items that you would have liked very much for your garden; or perhaps there were other times when you found you had more of some things than you needed and would have been glad to have exchanged.

Mrs. C. Lansing Guest Speaker

The June meeting of the St. Paul's W.A. was held in the Church Parlours on Tuesday afternoon, June 15th. The President, Mrs. Warren, presided. The hostess, Mrs. J. B. Thompson, received the guests. The meeting opened with the theme song and prayer. Mrs. H. Wells, Treasurer, gave the financial report and the Secretary read the minutes and correspondence.

The calling committee reported 19 calls for the month of May. Mrs. A. E. Good and Mrs. W. C. Pitman will act as the calling committee for the month of June.

Mrs. P. Utman, convener for the afternoon, opened her programme with the singing of a hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Scott read the Scripture and Mrs. W. C. Pryor favoured the group with a piano solo. Miss Wendy Warren, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. E. Baker, rendered a vocal solo.

Mrs. C. Lansing was the guest speaker for the afternoon. She chose as her subject, "Success." What is it? Success does mean different things to different people. He who has loved much lived well and laughed often, who has left the world better than he found it — who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had, whose memory a benediction.

The first mile is the mile of duty and the second mile is the mile of love. We must go a little beyond what is demanded. Real success is not easy to achieve and comparatively few of us ever arrive at the ultimate goal. Good things come high. They are bought at a price and are paid for

In the coin of toll, sweat and sacrifice. Success does not just happen. One very important step toward success is doing a good job each day, in spite of obstacles, or criticism. Never let a difficulty stop you. Don't nag — the successful businessman comes from a happy home.

In conclusion, Mrs. Lansing summed up her address by these words — Live a simple life, think constructively, store your mind with useful thoughts, be grateful and keep close to God. True and enduring happiness depends primarily upon close alliance with Him.

Mrs. C. Davidson thanked Mrs. Utman and her committee for the enjoyable and instructive afternoon's programme. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which a dainty lunch was served.

Born in Oshawa, the deceased was a son of the late James W. and Annie Cowle and spent his entire life in the Oshawa district. He was an adherent of the United Church.

For many years Mr. Cowle operated a trucking and cartage business. He was an ardent baseball and hockey fan and for a number of years owned racing pigeons.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. James Cowle; a sister, Mrs. Roy Trimm; three brothers, Frank, Theodore and Charles Cowle, and two grandchildren, Billy Duffield and Jerry Cowle, all of Oshawa.

(Mrs. Cowle was a former Stirling resident).

WHAT OTHERS SAY!

ADVOCATES THE WOODSHED TREATMENT

(Bowmanville Statesman)

Much space in newspapers and magazines is being devoted these days to modern trend in education, all of which appears to be quite a different system to that taught in the little old red school house. So just to refresh our readers' minds we are publishing an article sent to us by one of our U.S. subscribers which speaks for itself:

A school which doesn't spare the rod has attracted nationwide attention, with many parents blowing their stacks at the idea of a teacher or school principal laying a hand on a hard-to-handle kid. Despite the national scene which shows the small fry and teen-agers operating in switch-knife gangs, sticking up stores, vandalizing schools and homes and giving the police the laugh, the uproar from parents who are outraged by a few whacks from a teacher "where it does the most good" can be heard from coast to coast. Which is extra hard to explain in view of the fact that if there is anything the kids need today it is a little tough disciplining and a respect for the rules and regulations.

America was built through generations in which the trip to the woodshed, the shingle, the paddle and the school principal's thick strap were routine in the case of a kid who set himself up as boss of the works, thumbed his nose at rules and constituted a major headache in home and school.

It is a notable fact that in those days of a little hardy discipline now and then no schoolrooms were wrecked, no teachers terrorized, no community shamed by juvenile crime waves and no teen-ager seen smiling from ear to ear as he posed for the photographers after being arrested for poisoning his parents, shoving a "This is a stickup" note through a bank window, stealing a neighbour's car or pushing over cemetery monuments by way of good clean fun.

Law and order never had it so good as when the old man paddled junior to a fare-thee-well if he deserved it and when the school head could apply the strap to a juvenile rowdy with no screams from daddy and mummy.

We could still stand a lot of corrective work on our character, but we can't say that John G. Lewis, the school principal back home, didn't try hard when he called us into his office, took out the biggest strap we ever saw before or since, and brought it down 10 or 15 times on each outstretched paw. He was a workmanlike master of discipline who put rhythm and wallop into it.

No gripping too hard or failing to follow through. It never struck us as an unjust proceeding, even when he made us howl, and we knew better than to tell our parents. No boy had better ones, but they could hear of a little punishment in school for disorderly conduct without writing the editor getting up a protest parade or filling the air with arguments that children must be allowed to develop character with minimum interference, even in their moments of outlawry.

Fractures Wrist

Harold Mathison, of Havelock, retired postmaster, fractured two small bones in his right wrist last week. He suffered the mishap while painting the ceiling of the living room at his home, falling between two step ladders. In falling, he tried to save his right hip and his whole weight came down on the hand. —Havelock Standard.

June Meeting St. Paul's W.M.S.

Approximately forty members and associate members gathered in the Sunday School Hall of St. Paul's United Church for the June meeting of the W.M.S. Auxiliary.

Mrs. G. Carlisle opened the meeting with a brief meditative poem and prayer and then called on Mrs. J. B. Hough, the programme convener, to preside.

Following the singing of a hymn, Mrs. S. Bird read the Scripture Lesson from St. Luke's Gospel. Mrs. Hough gave a preview of the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches to be held in Evanston, Illinois, in August of this year. The first Assembly was held in Amsterdam in 1948 and the theme was "Man's Disorder and God's Design." This year the theme will be "The Christian Hope." The leader then offered prayer for all who carried special burdens of responsibility for this great gathering of World Christians.

At this time a group of ladies presented a special programme entitled, "The Last Best Hope of Earth." It was a short but dramatic presentation, picturing some of the colour and pageantry expected to take place at the Evanston Assembly, and told of some of the important themes for study. At the conclusion Mrs. Hough conducted a brief worship service.

Mrs. I. Thain was the soloist for this portion of the programme.

Mrs. Carlisle presided during the business session. The Treasurer and Secretaries of Christian Stewardship and Christian Citizenship gave excellent reports and the President read an article under the heading, "A Sermon on the Soil," describing the work being done by our Missionary for prayer, Dr. Allan Knight, of Africa.

The lunch committee served tea and cookies and the final meeting of the half year ended with many wishes being expressed for happy holidays and a prayer for renewed interest when meetings re-convene in September.

Mrs. Russell Stapley voiced a vote of thanks to each and every one who had contributed to making the June meeting a success.

St. Paul's--Carmel News Items

(By Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E.)

The June issue of Ontario Government Services contains a number of pictures indicating the scope of Health Units. These are described as most effective in protecting community health and in the fight against communicable diseases.

Ontario's 27 Health Units provide the most effective method yet devised to care for health at the community level says Health Minister Dr. MacKinnon Phillips. Approximately fifty per cent of the cost is paid by the Ontario Government. It is a matter of regret that the fine children of Hastings County continue to be disadvantaged by the failure of the Hastings County Council to join with the other progressive County administrations in providing this service for its citizens.

More Chronicles

1. The concluding series of Chronicles which follow do not exhaust this field of worthy notation. It is regretted that many deserving souls have not been mentioned by name. There is no desire to by-pass anyone.

Mr. Harold Hagerman and his predecessor Mr. J. L. Good have well served the congregation and community as Superintendents of the Sunday School. Mr. Hagerman continues to exercise this great responsibility with commendable zeal. Like his devoted parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hagerman he is loyal to the church and the programme of the Kingdom.

While his repertoire in our opinion could be enriched none will gainsay the willingness of Mr. X. P. Mayhew to lend a hand whenever and wherever possible. His good nature is contagious.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilkins have proven loyal souls. They are kind in reference to the Minister and diligent in every care committed to them.

The production of the operetta which produced the money for choir gowns was facilitated by the willing co-operation of Mr. Harold Chambers and the interest and help of Mr. Maurice Bell.

The Agricultural Representative, Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, has always been co-operative; also his talented wife. The associates and staff of Mr. Dalrymple have always been helpful especially Miss Moorcroft and Mr. Francis.

One of the most regular and devoted families at public worship is Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker with their children. Their example should be an inspiration to all young married folk. This fine couple has demonstrated that it is not the children but the devil that keeps "young marrieds" in most instances away from church.

A quiet man of few words but valued counsel and experience is Mr. W. C. West. He with his devoted partner exemplify team work in the range of our older citizens. Another fine couple in this category are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Francis.

Among our shut-ins reference should be made to the tenacity with which Mrs. A. W. Andrews maintains her home. Her cheerfulness is a tonic to all, especially the depressed. Mrs. Mary Jane Smith, of Henry St., is another handicapped mother in Israel. Her life is marked by piety and appreciation. The care and consideration bestowed by her daughter, Mrs. Ashley W. Brooks is evident on every hand. In addition the Brooks' garden rivals those of Mrs. Claude Tucker and Mrs. Charles Conley.

Mrs. K. Belcour has been the efficient Secretary of the Royal Choir for over two years. Her devotion and unpublicized ministry is one of many performed by good Samaritans of St. Paul's and Carmel.

Grand Service

Our congratulations to the Grand Scribe of Hastings County, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, of Mount Pleasant (Hubble Hill) whose long and valued service as a newspaper correspondent, Christian leader and public spirited citizen has been recognized in a special award by the Weekly News-Papers Association of Ontario.

Apart from her newspaper work, Mrs. MacMullen has been specially active in the Woman's Missionary Society for over 40 years. Her offices included 1912-16, Secretary Mount Pleasant Mission Circle; 1914-15, President M.P. Epworth League; 1926-54, Press Secretary of Mount Pleasant W.M.A.; 1927-37, Press Secretary Belleville Presbyterian W.M.S.; 1935-42, Pres. of Mount Pleasant Auxiliary; 1937-1942, Press Secretary Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the W.M.S.; 1943-48, Recording Stewart Rawdon Pastoral Charge; 1943-44, Press Secretary of Belleville Presbyterian W.M.S.; 1946-1950, Secretary Mission Circles for the Belleville Presbyterian; 1953-54, Press Secretary of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, for the Ontario Intelligencer.

Mrs. MacMullen was nominated as a Commissioner to the General Council of the United Church of Canada at the Bay of Quinte Conference meeting held in Belleville early this month. Although she was not successful in the election, her name is on the roll should those elected be unable to attend. It is hoped that she will be nominated and elected in 1956.

More Chronicles

Mrs. Letha Thompson has maintained a loyal and helpful interest in the work of the Junior Choir and the Festival of Sacred Praise. Mrs. David Luery and Miss Jessie Johnston have carried on the work of gown stewards in a valued ministry to boys and girls. Mrs. Elizabeth Christie was for many years the careful Treasurer of the Adult Class.

The work of Mrs. Jack McCaughen as Mission Band leader and Supt. of the Primary Dept. has been outstanding. Often single handed she carries on cheerfully and efficiently. In recent months she has welcomed the assistance in the Sunday School of Mrs. X. P. Mayhew, Mrs. C. West and Mrs. Wm. Wilkins.

It should be noted that valued work was done (in days now a memory to only a few) in the Baby Band and Mission Circle by Mrs. H. Demorest, Mrs. H. Wells, Mrs. H. C. Bird and Mrs. H. West.

Mrs. H. Donnan will be remembered for long and regular service as a teacher in the Sunday School; also exemplified by Miss A. Bush, Mrs. Glen Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Elliott and Mr. Meighen Rodgers.

The battery of Sunday School pianists is a tribute to a fine group of teen-agers who provide a wealth of material for this helpful work.

Seventh Chosen

At a recent meeting of the Official Board of St. Paul's Church, Mrs. Roy Bush was officially elected Church Historian. For years she has gathered pictures and clippings related to the church. She has recently undertaken to prepare a huge volume related to the ministry of Centennial Year at St. Paul's.

This talented woman, a descendant of the first settler in Stirling, was invested with a fairy stone cross last Sunday by Mrs. W. T. Elliott. This completes the perfect number at St. Paul's.

Flowers

Father's Day will be remembered by the profusion of gorgeous flowers at St. Paul's. A beautiful basket graced the entrance hall table of the church and the altar area was a bank of fragrant beauty.

Memorial baskets were sent by: (1) Mrs. H. C. Bird in loving memory of her father, the late David Teal; (2) Mrs. Sidmer Bird in loving memory of her husband; (3) Mrs. N. Wescott and Mrs. N. Morton in loving memory of their parents.

"Hillsholme" furnished selected blooms including an American Beauty rose for the Minister and Mrs. W. L. Fox supplied an unrivaled quantity of carefully selected peonies of several colours as well as a choice pink rosebud for the Parson. Anonymous flowers were also gratefully acknowledged. All flowers were tastefully arranged by Mrs. Walter Elliott.

Memorial

Two large print hymnaries were dedicated at St. Paul's in loving memory of Wm. Livingstone, who entered his rest October 10th, 1950, the love gift of his daughter, Eliza (Mrs. Russell Rupert).

The sympathy of St. Paul's is extended to Mrs. H. C. Bird, recently bereaved by the death of her father.

The burial committal service for the late Ruben Charles Shetler was conducted by the Minister at Stirling Cemetery last Wednesday.

At Carmel

Mrs. Lorne W. Brooks, Flower Convener, beloved wife, mother and grandmother, and teacher in the Sunday School, was invested with a fairy stone cross in recognition of her distinguished service last Sunday. The Church was radiant with seasonable flowers.

Special prayers were offered on behalf of Mrs. Everett Grills.

The Union Jack at the Carmel flag pole proudly greeted two carloads of visitors from Toronto who came to see this beautiful sanctuary.

Some Carmel Folk

Mr. Joseph Grills, Elder and Church Officer at Carmel, is also flag master. We have never seen him cross or angry. His infectious smile has been inherited by his fine sons. The Grills at Carmel may be said to be sufficiently numerous to form a clan. They are clean, ambitious folk who loyally support the Church of the Prophets.

Harry E. Brown, Elder and Clerk of the Session while diligent in every office at Carmel, has also regularly supported the Stirling Choir. In addition he has provided transportation on Sundays enabling several boys and girls to share in the ministry of the Royal Choir. The Browns with their daughter (Verna) Mrs. G. Clancy, are among the pillars of the Carmel Church. They are patrons of sweet

Makes As Many As 8 Firm-Packed Bales Per Minute

... Seals Nutrients In — Weather Out!

The Dearborn Hay Baler provides a good solution to the problem of protecting good hay from weather "robbers." It's a one man, automatic twine-tie baler that changes windrows into firm bales in a hurry.

GREATER CAPACITY

You really "make hay while the sun shines" with the Dearborn Hay Baler. It can make as many as 8 tightly tied bales in 60 seconds. That figures up to about ten tons of hay per hour! Furthermore, the 26 horsepower engine on this baler provides adequate power for all types of hay... lets you make the most of good baling weather.

MORE CONVENIENCE

Such features as adjustable tractor hitch, tongue stand, built-in jack, automatic bale tension and bale counter are standard equipment. A wagon hitch and a chute extension are sold separately. These items make the Dearborn Hay Baler easy to work with... a great profit builder!

SEE IT SOON

We'd like to prove to you that this faithful performer can save you plenty of time, money and trouble.

Ask for a demonstration of the Dearborn Hay Baler. You'll be glad you did! Convenient terms available.

Judge Anderson Orders Tweed Vote Set Aside

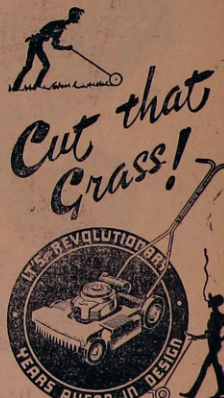

In a 19-page judgment last week with respect to a hearing on the validity of a beverage room vote taken at Tweed last November 18th, Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson has ordered the vote set aside on all three questions.

In the vote all three questions — men's beverage rooms, men's and women's beverage rooms, and the sale of liquor with meals, failed by a narrow margin to receive the required 60 per cent vote.

However, certain irregularities in the voting were charged by the wets' interests who made application to have the vote set aside.

The hearing was held before Judge Anderson on three different dates — January 19th, March 26-27 and May 10-11. Judgment was reserved at the conclusion of the hearing.

Irregularities charged included failure of certain election workers to be sworn properly and voting taking place in booths which did not meet with election secrecy requirements.

Weekly Newspaper Group Honours Newsman of Year

The busy clicking of a typewriter in a darkened weekly newspaper office late at night used to startle visitors to the Western Ontario community of Arthur.

They soon learned, however, that the editor of the Arthur Enterprise-News needed no light. For Rixon Rafter was a blind newspaperman who worked with Braille notes, touch typing and a phenomenal memory.

Mr. Rafter ran his paper successfully for 45 years, without missing an edition, in the community 70 miles northwest of Toronto. He sold it last November and, at 68, retired.

Recently the Ontario division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association presented him with an award as Weekly Newspaperman of the Year. At the same time it honored Weir Grieve, who writes from Tobermory for the Warton Echo, as Ontario's champion country correspondent, and made its annual awards for achievement in the weekly newspaper field.

Mr. Rafter, blinded by a childhood accident, had a Queen's University degree when he bought the Arthur Enterprise in 1908. By hard and conscientious work over the years, he built its circulation from 800 to 1,400. He reported meetings, wrote editorials, solicited advertising and kept track of job printing.

In making the award, the weekly newspapers' organization handed Mr. Rafter a citation in Braille. It said, in part:

Champion Correspondent

"His record reveals effective editorial guidance — and this without fear or favor — in issues relating to the welfare of his community. He never hesitated to speak out when he considered some project not in the public interest."

Ontario's champion country correspondent, the 72-year-old Scottish-born Mr. Grieve practiced seven years as a lawyer in Scotland, served in the British Army during the First World War, then worked at various jobs in the U.S. before settling in 1926 in Tobermory, port and tourist centre at the tip of Bruce Peninsula about 50 miles north of Owen Sound. He built a log cabin in which he has lived ever since. Since 1941 he has been Echo correspondent, attended meetings or other gatherings in the village and arranged to get information about groups' activities.

"For finding out who is visiting in town, I repair to the poolroom and filling station run by Alex Holmes and also frequent the village's two restaurants, where I quaff coffee and smoke and keep my ears open," he wrote when the CWN's division asked him for details of his activities. "I also hang around the docks to pick up bits of news."

New Sign

We are grateful for the new sign at Frankford Road and Front Street reading "Carmel." Indeed for all sign improvements we give thanks. We venture to suggest that a second Carmel sign at the corner of Front St. and the entrance to the Old Marmora Road would also be welcome and helpful.

Although an octogenarian, Mrs. Walter T. A. Barker expects to fly to Edmonton next Monday to visit kinfolk in the West. Everyone will follow with interest the holiday flight of Mrs. Barker and wish her a most enjoyable vacation.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Weed of The Week

CANADA THISTLE A PERSISTENT PEST

The growth of Canada Thistle (Cirsium Arvense) in any year may depend on unusual weather conditions says the Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. It is a deep-rooted perennial with underground root stalks. It is very persistent and can cause a great deal of trouble in crop lands. The purple flowers, that ripen over a long period of time, and the airborne downy seeds which are scattered far and wide, combine to make this weed difficult to control.

A word of warning — Those who have threshed or combined their crops when Canada Thistle is in full seed should realize that they are sowing their farm to this noxious plant. The feeding of grains contaminated with this weed seed has no effect on the germination of the seed, and grain that is not cleaned extremely well will carry Canada Thistle back to fields when used as seed.

Black summer fallow, where practical, will eradicate most of any infestation. This weed makes a small growth the first year and may lie close to the ground. If the weed is sprayed in the fall the growth for the next year that produces seed will be eliminated. All growth of from six to eight inches should be sprayed, using at least 16 ounces of 2-4-D per acre. Spraying should be done for some distance around the plants to ensure that all new shoots are destroyed. Legumes will also be destroyed by grass will take over when Thistles are removed.

Mowing and cutting are always good advice, as preventing seed production is a major factor in the control of all weeds. Good cultivation, that will bring root stalks to the surface is recommended. Canada Thistle is at the weak stage at budding. That is the best time to attack it.

MOISTURE CONTENT AND ENSIING CONDITIONS IN RELATION TO SILAGE QUALITY

The moisture content and ensiling conditions largely determine the quality, palatability and spoilage loss associated with grass and legume crops. W. E. Cordukes reports that such findings are the result of silage experiments by the Division of Field Husbandry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering, at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The moisture content of young, immature forages is normally 80 per cent or higher and steadily decreases with maturity, until at the full bloom stage the crop will contain approximately 72 per cent moisture. Excellent silage can be made from these crops, ensiled when the moisture content ranges from 65 to 75 per cent. If the chopped forage when squeezed in the palm of the hand does not ooze moisture and slowly springs apart on opening of the hand, the moisture content will be in the desired range. The length of cut and degree of compaction should be varied according to the moisture content of the crop at ensiling time.

When forages have a high moisture content, the grass or legumes should be wilted slightly before ensiling. The ensilage cutter should be set to cut in 2 or 3 inch lengths and the material thoroughly spread and lightly packed. This will enhance the desired lactic acid fermentation and help to prevent the offensive butyric acid development. As the forages mature and their moisture level decreases, the length of cut should be progressively shortened and the degree of packing increased. Thus, at the full bloom growth stage a short cut from 1/2 to 3/4 inch cut should be employed and the silage thoroughly compacted.

Grass and legume crops properly ensiled have a pleasant odour, a green to light-brown colour and a minimum spoilage. When ensiled at too low a level of moisture or poorly compacted, the silage have a higher spoilage loss. Often, some mouldy spots occur throughout and are usually dark-brown to black in colour with a sweet sugar-like smell. On the other hand, crops ensiled in a very wet condition and overly-compacted are dark in colour with a disagreeable odour.

FERTILIZER BOARDS WANT MORE PLANT FOOD IN FERTILIZERS

A proposal to raise the minimum plant food requirements of mixed fertilizers has the support of the Ontario Advisory Fertilizer Board. The suggestion to establish the minimum at twenty-four per cent instead of the present twenty per cent came from the Plant Food Producers' Association and support has come from each of the Provincial Boards with minor reservations.

Substantial progress has been made in the use of more concentrated fertilizers during the past twenty years. In 1933 fertilizers used in Ontario averaged slightly over nineteen per cent actual plant food. Ten years later this figure had risen to twenty-one per cent while in 1953 it reached 26.8 per cent.

This upward trend in concentration of fertilizers has been made possible by the use of more highly refined materials used in compounding them and has resulted in savings to the farmer in freight, bags and other costs.

While a ton of fertilizer today may cost more than it did some years ago, there is considerably more plant food in it.

The Advisory Fertilizer Boards in Eastern Canada would like to see still further progress made in providing more plant food in each bag of fertilizer.

Since the legal requirements respecting the manufacture and sale of fertilizers is a Dominion Government responsibility an amendment to the Canada Fertilizers Act is necessary before the suggested minimum of 24 per cent plant food can be changed and enforced.

The views of the Plant Food Industry and Advisory Fertilizer Boards were presented to the control officials in Ottawa in November 1953. Raising of the minimum plant food content was one of several suggestions made with a view to improving the present Act and bringing up-to-date, since many new problems have arisen since the Act was passed in 1940.

Ontario farmers are using larger quantities of fertilizers each year involving heavy expenditures. While the investment usually pays good dividends the Advisory Fertilizer Board feels it to be its responsibility to promote the use of fertilizer best adapted for the crops and soils of Ontario and to effect such changes as will bring about savings to the farmer user.

Current advice on soils and fertilizers may be obtained by writing to the Field Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, for Bulletin 497.

NEW SPRAY REDUCES STORAGE LOSSES

Do you have trouble with potatoes, onions and other root crops sprouting in storage? Research experiments with a new chemical, maleic hydrazide, show that it has the ability to depress or slow down growth processes in plants. The Experimental Station at Morden, Man., reports that it has been useful in preventing premature sprouting of vegetables placed in storage.

The Station recommends maleic hydrazide be applied as a spray to the growing plants usually 3 to 4 weeks before harvest. Rate of application varies from 3 to 4 pounds of active chemical per acre in 50 to 100 gallons of water. The amount applied depends on the size of the plants to be treated. Best response with potatoes is obtained when they are sprayed soon after reaching full bloom.

Not all varieties of vegetables give favourable response to maleic hydrazide. The hard, storage type of onion, such as Yellow Globe Danvers, Brigham Yellow Globe, will keep very well in storage following treatment. However, the soft onion varieties, such as Sweet Spanish, seem to have an even shorter life storage life following treatment than the normally short storage period of untreated bulbs.

AGRICULTURAL SURVEY JUNE 1954

The annual June survey of farm crops and livestock commenced June 1st. Forms are distributed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and Provincial co-operate with the Bureau in the conduct of the survey. The survey makes it possible to measure the changes which have taken place during the past year in the numbers of livestock on farms and the acreages seeded to crops.

Information supplied by an individual farmer is kept confidential. All farm reports received are grouped together and enable the statistician to estimate the annual statistics so important to farmers and their organizations. All farmers, therefore, are asked to co-operate in making this survey as successful as possible.

McCarthy -- McGee Nuptials At Leaside

Scarlet peonies decorated the white altar of St. Anselm's Church, Leaside, when Rev. W. J. McGee, of Kingston, uncle of the bride, officiated at the marriage of Mary Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray McGee, to Daniel J. McCarthy, son of Dr. Mary B. McCarthy and the late D. J. McCarthy on Saturday, June 19th.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of tissue fallie silk echantung, styled with empire waistline, short sleeves and full skirt of soft unpressed pleats. Heavy Gulpure lace formed the portrait neckline, and her fingertip veil fell from a matching wreath of the lace. Her flowers were white carnations centred with scarlet Sweetheart roses.

Miss Ann Wiertz, the bride's only attendant, chose a waltz-length gown of deep turquoise silk organza, with scoop neckline, short sleeves and accordion-pleated skirt. Her awirl cap and bouquet were of petalled flowers in Spanish colors, violet, yellow and scarlet. Mr. William McNamara was best man, and Mr. Colin Quinn, of Montreal, and Mr. Murray McGee, Jr., of Leaside, were ushers.

After the reception at the Northgate Hotel, the couple left on the Saguenay cruise.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGee, of Stirling.
